Epidemic Hits North Indians

Three Dead As 10 Others Forced To Bed in B.C.

Diphtheria among an isolated band of Indians near Fort St. John, B.C., has claimed three lives and left 10 other natives bedridden, it was disclosed here today but spread is believed under control.

An RCAF plane returned to Edmonton after dropping a fresh supply of anti-toxin to an Indian health services nurse who was rushed to the aid of the band.

The epidemic broke out at Halfway River, 75 miles northwest of Fort St. John.

ANTI-TOXIN DROPPED

Dr. W. L. Falconer, newly appointed director of Camsell hospital, said today he had received no further word from the area, leading to belief the situation was controlled.

An RCAF Beechcraft plane from search and rescue headquarters at Edmonton Wednesday parachuted a supply of urgently-needed anti-toxin to the reservation. The supply drop was made less than five hours after the RCAF received an emergency call for its services.

There is no suitable landing field at the scene, but officials in Edmonton said aircraft likely would attempt to take in medical help if the outbreak definitely was established as an epidemic.

Pilot of the Beechcraft making the supply drop was P/O Richard Threthewey of Haney, B.C. His co-pilot was F/O L. Richards of Vancouver. Sgt. Larry Poulson of Edmonton was in charge of the actual drop.

DOCTOR DIRECTS

Call for anti-toxin came from Dr. George M. Cormack, of Fort St. John. He was picked up there by the air force plane and directed the drop of the serum, and other supplies.

When word of the epidemic reached Fort St. John, the Indian affairs superintendent there, E. J. Gallbois, rushed Nurse A. V. Wilson of the Indian health services to the settlement by car.

Dr. Cormack said in his phone call that there had been no further deaths, and he believed the epidemic was being brought under control.

Telegrapher Dead

TORONTO, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Charles W. MacDonald, 71, telegrapher with the Canadian Pacific communications for 39 years, died yesterday. He retired in 1943. He had been stationed also in Montreal, London, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver.

Dictators Dupe Followers Pope Warns the World

By Norman Montellier

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 23.—(BUP)—Pope Pius urged the world today to make the 1950 holy year a turning point toward peace, but warned that "vain utopias" and totalitarian rule would not solve mankind's crisis.

The Pope delivered his annual Christmas message to the world before the sacred college of Cardinals and a host of ecclesiastical and lay members of the Papal court.

Tomorrow he will inaugurate the 25th jubilee year of the Roman Catholic church by opening the holy door in St. Peter's basilica—a year he said he hoped would be the half-century stopping point of an epoch of "apostasy and guilt," opening up an era of peace.

GRIEF SHOWS IN VOICE

The Pope never mentioned Communism by name in his 35-minute address in the consistorial hall of the Vatican palace. It will be broadcast to the world in 23 languages for three days.

But his voice slowed, and he became exactingly deliberate as he bared his grief over the persecution of religion in Europe and Asia.

He spoke specifically of "limitless China," where a vast Communist sweep is just ending, and where, he said, "revolutionary upheavals in conditions that were already unstable have converted fields flourishing with life into cemeteries of death."

The Pontiff pleaded for the return to the church of unbelievers, atheists, and dissidents.

CRUSADE FOR PEACE

He urged the world's 375,000,000 Catholics to be the vanguard of a united religious "Crusade for Peace."

He asked the governments of all nations to invoke the spirit of the

DOOR LEADS TO PRISON

LAWRENCE, Mass., Dec. 23.—(UP)—Charles A. Wyman, 52, opened the wrong door and landed in state prison today on burglary charges for a four-to-seven-year term.

When a policeman surprised him burglarizing a shoe store, Wyman yanked open a door to make his get-away and ran into a closet.

CHARLOTTETOWN, Dec. 23—(CP)—Senator John E. Sinclair of Summerfield P.E.I., died in hospital here early today.

DICK TRACY FANS HEAR GREAT NEWS

SH-SH! I'VE GOT SOMETHING TO TELL YOU.
FIRST, I WANT YOU TO MEET MRS. TRACY.

Dick Tracy is trapped.

The ace detective of comic-dom, eluder of hundreds of snares while tracking down the comic world's masters of crime, has been caught once and for all—by a gold band.

Tess Trueheart, who has loved and waited for Dick Tracy through years of comic strip adventures, finally managed to get him to stop swearing out warrants long enough to have him swear to love, honor and obey.

And all Tracy's friends are agog. Gravel Gertie, B.O. Plenty, Junior, faithful policeman Pat Patton, are all struck dumb.

But we can't tell you the details. They are still shrouded in secrecy. You, however, can find them tomorrow in the colored comic section of the Bulletin, and we know you will join us in congratulating Dick and Tess.

Man, Child Die From Gas

CALGARY, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Two persons died early this morning of asphyxiation in a gas-filled home here which later burst into flames and was almost completely destroyed. A third person was saved by firemen.

Dead are: W. A. Laraway, 72, and his grandson Darrall Cull, 2.

Rescued was Darrall's sister, Deidre, 7.

Firemen pulled the children from the smoking gas-filled home but after nearly two hours of artificial respiration they were unable to revive Laraway and Darrall.

Police and a neighbor took the grandfather through a window in the six-room house. The only other occupant, Mrs. Violet Cull, mother of the two children and daughter of Laraway was absent from home.

Blasts Used Against Flood

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Dec. 23—(BUP)—Engineers today used dynamite charges in a desperate attempt to prevent the Nechako river from flooding the industrial section of Prince George, in northern British Columbia.

Engineers said they were trying to divert the Nechako river, swirling four feet above normal. Floods have already left damage estimated at $50,000.

Dynamite was used today on an ice jam at the junction of the Nechako and Fraser rivers, whose icy waters have already caused seven of 11 mills in the Prince George area to close down. Some 300 woodworkers will be without work for at least a month.

Engineers said if the Nechako continues to rise today, "several" families will have to be evacuated from their homes.

90-Mile-An-Hour Ride Carries Baby To Hospital

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 23.—(CP)—Reaching speeds of 90 miles an hour, provincial police car from Woodstock last night rushed a baby more than 30 miles to hospital here in less than half an hour. Six-month-old Sharon Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walters of Woodstock, is suffering from influenzal meningitis. Her condition is said to be critical.

Comet-Like Plane Crash Kills Eleven

Giant USAF Bomber Plunges Deep Into Swamp Mud

From AP, UP Despatches

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 23.—A United States airforce B-50 bomber, trailing sheets of flame, plummeted into a rice paddy tonight, killing all 11 crew members.

The report on the number of crew members aboard came from the operations office at Chatham Field, the plane's home base.

The B-50 bomber—a modified version of the famous B-29 Flying Fortress—plunged into the morass of abandoned rice fields five minutes after taking off from Chatham air force base on a routine training flight to Texas.

TONS OF GASOLINE

The big plane, carrying a fuel load of between 6,000 and 8,000 gallons of high octane gasoline, exploded in a geyser of flames that ripped a 50-foot-wide crater in the bog-lands.

Crash boats came upon the bodies of four of the fliers this morning several hours after another body was recovered. None of the dead was identified.

Officers of the Chatham base, called from a Christmas party when the tragedy happened, supervised the search for other victims.

Air force personnel, armed with razor-sharp machetes, were ordered into the swamps to cut a path through tough saw grass and undergrowth so the bodies of the dead could be removed.

Stettler Well Is A Success

CALGARY, Dec. 23.—(BUP)—A good-sized pay-zone has been found at another oil well in the Stettler district of Alberta.

The Canadian Gulf Oil Company well is about half a mile north-east of the company's dual-zone Stettler discovery well. It is the first close-in follow-up to the discovery well.

Officials said the well has uncovered at least 74 feet of D-2 porosity. Full extent of the zone is still not known. Further testing is taking place and the base of the zone has not yet been encountered.

New Freight Hearing Set

OTTAWA, Dec. 23—(CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners said today it will hear further submissions from the Canadian railways in February on their application for a general 20-per-cent increase in railway freight rates.

The announcement came the day after the Supreme Court of Canada handed down a judgment expressing the opinion that the board had failed in its duty by not making a final decision on the application when it awarded the railways an interim increase of eight per cent in September.

The board said it had received a request from the Canadian Pacific Railway company and the Railway Association of Canada for setting of a date when further submissions could be made on the application, originally filed in 1948.

Canadian Bacon To Be Big Item

OTTAWA, Dec. 23—(BUP)—Britain will sign a contract for about $17,000,000 worth of Canadian bacon before the end of the year, it was reliably learned today.

Sources close to the current Anglo-Canadian food negotiations said that some $25,000,000 out of funds earmarked for western wheat purchases would be set aside for bacon, salmon and Eastern Canada softwoods. There would be no purchases of eggs or apples, they added.

Of the $25,000,000, they said, about $17,000,000 would go into bacon, some $5,000,000 for salmon and $2,500,000 for eastern timber, notably spruce.

A firm price for the bacon had not yet been agreed upon, the sources said. It was the only remaining point of contention.

The 1949 price for bacon was $30 per hunderweight under the contract. On this basis, Britain would be able to buy about 58,000,000 pounds out of Canada's estimated surplus of close to 100,000,000 pounds for 1950.

EQUAL POUNDAGE

It was learned, however, that British negotiators were pressing for a substantial cut in price. If they succeeded, it was probable they could take as much as 80,000,000 pounds for their $17,000,000, a poundage equal to this year's.

It was pointed out that the $2,500,000 for eastern softwoods covered only the first six months of the new year. It was felt that a similar deal could be worked out for the latter half of the year.

The $5,000,000 for salmon, largely from British Columbia, would cover the entrie year. This year Canada sold slightly more than $7,000,000 worth to the United Kingdom.

HOPES DWINDLE

Hopes for an anglo-Canadian cheese contract, similar to this year's were dwindling, the sources said.

If the negotiations broke down, however, there was still hope that Canadian cheese producers would be able to dispose of their entire surplus in another way. A "Marshall plan allocation of $27,000,000, earmarked for the United States and Canada, would be spent partially for cheese, the source said.

Blows Traded By Mothers In Courtroom

MONTREAL, Dec. 23—A wild scene occured in a courtroom here today when two women exchanged blows over possession of a child whose custody Mr. Justice Louis Loranger had awarded to a foster mother.

The battle came when the judge ruled that adoption of a six-year old boy by Mrs. Donald Moffatt of Plattsburg, N.Y., was valid.

PAPERS SAID FALSE

The child's mother, Mrs. Amedee Poirier, declared the adoption papers were falsely signed but Mrs. Moffatt contended she had seen the Montreal woman sign them.

As the judge awarded custody to the Plattsburg woman, Mrs. Poirier tried to take the child. Blows were exchanged.

As the principals left the chamber, the battle broke out again and policemen were called to separate the two.

Mrs. Poirier collapsed and a doctor had to be called to revive her.

ADOPTION LEGAL

Mrs. Moffatt contended the child had been adopted by a judgment of the Montreal superior court but had been taken away two months ago from the home of Mrs. Moffatt's mother and brought to Montreal where he was illegally detained.

Mr. Justice Loranger ruled that the superior court judgment must be considered valid unless it were proved to have been fraudulently obtained.

Twin Dolls Under Tree Await Siamese Twins

Two tiny twin dolls and a warm pink blanket, big enough for Canada's two most famous babies, are under the Christmas tree at Tofield hospital today.

The gaily-wrapped packages are among those Santa Claus will bring to Brenda and Beverley Townsend, Canada's only living Siamese twins.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Townsend, of Tofield, took the gifts to the hospital last night and added them to the pile of presents already received for the community hospital tree.

Though the Townsend home in Tofield is decorated with a Christmas tree and is ready for Christmas celebrations, there is no possibility of the tiny six-week old babies being taken home during the Christmas celebrations, Mr. Townsend told The Bulletin today.

After Christmas Brenda and Beverley will begin a series of medical tests by doctors to determine if there is any hope of separating them. The little girls are joined at the abdomen.

16-Year-Old Youth Nears End of Life at Christmas

NAPANEE, Ont., Dec. 23—(BUP)—Alfred Childs, 16, caught up on his adventure-fiction under the watchful eyes of his death-cell guard today, and nonchalantly crossed Christmas off as the 48th day before his execution.

Childs, a slim, intense youth hunched calmly on his bunk reading and smoking. He appeared indifferent to the fact that national organizations, parliamentarians and others were making a desperate bid on his behalf for commutation of the sentence.

So far, there was no indication that it would be granted.

The youth was convicted of shooting local farmer Elijah McQuaid and sentenced to hang Feb. 10.

Jail officials said every attempt would be made to give the lad a good time on what possibly would be his last Christmas. The festive arrangements, which attempted to strike a note of cheer in the drab corridors and cells of the building, were being handled by the Salvation Army.

DINNER READIED

On Christmas Day Childs would be given a dinner with all the trimmings. Only he will have chicken instead of turkey. There also will be dressing, plum pudding and mince pie.

The boy would be alone all day Christmas. His parents, who lived in Toronto, will not be up to see him. However, they sent him money to buy any small comforts the jail canteen had to offer.

His mother, father, brothers and sisters had been up to see him on several occasions, jail officials said.

The youth spent most of his time reading. The Salvation Army supplied him with magazines and books and he also borrowed from the jail library. His taste ran to adventure fiction. No crime or western stories were allowed to reach him.

holy year by erasing laws for the punishment of war and political criminals.

"It seems to us," he said, "that the holy year of 1950 must be decisive, especially for the longed-for religious renewal of the modern world, and that it must solve the spiritual crisis which oppresses the souls of our age."

His voice was sharper when he condemned the "counterfeiting of God's plan" on the social plane. He warned emphatically against the promises of totalitarian rulers. Plainly speaking of Communist leaders, he said:

"You often place your faith and trust in men who are as positive in promising to solve all your problems as they are incapable of effecting the facile solutions which they hold out so dazzingly before your eyes.

"Indeed, some of these problems do not admit of an easy solution, owing to the very limitations of human nature. Reserve, then, this faith and trust in the first place for the promises of God, who does not deceive."

NOT EASY TO SOLVE

In the social field, he said, the "divine image of man" has been replaced by the "false notion of a man whose conscience is a law unto himself, who is his own legislator, brooking no control.

"An outgrowth of this, which came to wield increasing power over long periods of years because of its most varied applications in public and private life, was that narrowly individualistic order which today is in serious crisis almost everywhere.

"But the more recent innovators have provided no better results.

"Starting from the same mistaken premises and taking the downward path in another direction, they have led to no less disastrous consequences, including the complete overthrow of the divine order, contempt for the dignity of the human person, denial of the most sacred and fundamental freedoms, domination of a single class over others, the enslavement of all persons and property in a totalitarian state of the legalization of violence and to militant atheism."

Suicide Reveals Gem Thief's Life

'Society Bertie' Thought Duke of Windsor's Robber

LONDON, Dec. 23—(AP)—Scotland Yard pieced together today the bizarre double life of a suicide who they believe may have master-minded some of Europe's biggest gem thefts in the last decade.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, robbed of £20,000 ($63,000) worth of jewels at Sunningdale in 1946, are believed to have been among his victims, Yard sources said.

Already detectives have turned up stolen jewels worth $100,000 and are searching for more.

"JOHNNY THE GENT"

The dead man was known as Barry Holliday, 51-year-old man-about-town, famed among London's underworld as "Society Bertie," or "Johnny the Gent." He was found shot to death in a hotel room in suburban Virginia Water Wednesday. A walking stick hollowed out to contain a concealed gun was by his side. One shot had been fired.

Holliday had friends in high society. He frequented country hunting meets with socialites who later were often robbed of their gems.

Fingerprints taken after his death identified Holliday as another sort of man altogether—one Barry Fieldsend who was haled into a London court last week, charged with unlawful possession of jewelry worth £10,000. He was freed on £2,500 bail.

PROBE HAD BEGUN

Yard sources said Fieldsend—or Holliday—was last convicted 26 years ago on a trivial charge. But for more than a year the Yard has been quietly probing his activities.

Holliday described himself as a semi-retired dealer in precious stones. With his pretty blonde wife he entertained lavishly at his villa on Friary Island in the Thames in the summer. In the winter he lived in a swank flat in a five-storey London apartment house he owned.

Police sources said some of the stolen jewels were found in hidden wall and floor recesses at his villa. Others were in a strong box in London. Authorities still are looking for more hiding places.

CORONER'S VERDICT

Detectives, checking through his papers, believe Holliday died a wealthy man.

Why did he kill himself?

The coroner, who returned a suicide verdict at today's inquest, said:

"I think he had taken his own like to avoid the consequences of his own act."

Bacon Is Down Wholesale

Retail Outlets Are Not Aware Of Price Drop

Wholesale bacon prices have skidded from five to seven cents a pound in Edmonton over the past week, but retail outlets haven't yet heard anything about it, a Bulletin survey today revealed.

Uncertainty over United Kingdom food contracts was blamed by packers for the dip. They declined to predict the future.

A definite nervousness in the hog market has brought cheaper hog prices.

"We have to keep them moving while the run is on, so that we don't get caught with too high-priced stocks," said one official.

"Actually we're just as much in the wind as you are about what's going on and what's likely to happen," said another.

Warning Given Auto Drivers

Suspension of drivers' licences will be carried out rigidly against persons who drive dangerously, Magistrate A. I. Millar warned in police court this morning, as he fined Trevor Smallwood, Edmonton salesman, $50, or three months in jail, with a three-months' suspension of driving licence.

Smallwood pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving.

DRUMS THUMP the greetings in the land Alex Raglik, 10, knows so well. Now patient in Charles Camsell hospital, he tells Nurse Genevieve Anderson all about it.

Drums That Thump Merry Christmas

By Stanley Burke
Bulletin Staff Writer

It's going to be a different Christmas this year for nine-year-old Alex Kaglik, bright-eyed little Eskimo patient at Charles Camsell hospital.

Yesterday he told of his people at Aklavik, how many have never heard of Santa Claus and many have never seen a tree of any kind—let alone a Christmas tree. But Christmas is still the big festive season of the year for them.

Little Alex was lying on his tummy in a big plaster cast from his waist halfway up his back. He had to twist his head around to tell his simple little story.

FINDS WORD

"Last Christmas my uncle shot a ——. I don't know how you say it," he said hesitatingly.

Then he brightened as he found a word.

"Meat!" he said. "You know, meat."

He gestured sweepingly to indicate the impressive size of the animal his uncle had shot.

"A caribou?"

The cheerful little boy with spinal tuberculosis didn't think so.

"And we had potatoes," he said. You could tell that for him potatoes were an unusual delicacy.

"And we had—"

Again he groped for a word.

"Pie!" he exploded.

Alex did not know what kind of pie it was.

"But it was good," he said.

His family and friends gave presents just like people here, he said.

"I got boat, an' little gun, an' policeman," he said.

He showed how you could wind up the little tin policeman.

"And then he walked!" Alex exclaimed, bursting into a merry laugh as he recalled the wonderful little policeman.

DANCES POPULAR

For the grownups, the big thing about Christmas is the dancing. The Eskimos come for many miles to the centres such as Aklavik and Coppermine for the main social events of the year. All summer they must hunt. During the winter they relax. This is the joyful time of the year.

The old people perform the traditional dances of their people which have been handed down from antiquity.

"And they sing songs to tell what they have been doing," said Alex. "The hunting in the summer. About everything they have been doing, where they come from."

He told how these minstrels sing and dance to the accompaniment of the native drums.

Alex has been in Camsell hospital since October. He hopes to be home next winter.

Hospital authorities will not commit themselves as to what Alex' chances are to see his wish fulfilled.

"In some ways it might be a good thing for him and his people if he has to stay here for some time," commented Dr. Herbert Meltzer. "The longer he stays here the more we can teach him. He is a bright boy and learns quickly."

HAT LEFT BY THIEF

Merchandise to the value of $60 was stolen from the Milky Way Coffee Shop and Kingsway Car Sales, after a breakin during the early hours of the morning.

The loot included three bottles of liquor, cigarette lighter, fountain pen and other articles.

Police said entry was gained by breaking a glass in the rear window and unlatching the door. Police are holding a brown hat found on the premises, not identified by the proprietor.

Ambulance Work Boost

Provincial council of the St. John Ambulance in Edmonton has been notified by national headquarters that T. Eaton Company Limited of Canada has donated $20,000 to their 1949 campaign.

Of this, $1,500 has been designated to the credit of Alberta branch.

Over $31,000 has been raised by the organization in the 1949 provincial drive. The campaign officially closed Dec. 15.

The West Is Left Out

Western Canada has been flagrantly ignored in the new appointments to the supreme court of Canada.

The new appointees are John R. Cartwright of Toronto and Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of Montreal.

This means that of the nine supreme court justices, under the new legislation enlarging the court, only one was born in the West and only two have pursued their legal careers in the West.

Two among nine is a tragic minority which reflects no credit on the fair-mindedness of the federal government.

Of the seven justices of the supreme court, prior to its enlargement, one was born in Montreal, one in Sarnia, Ontario, one in Quebec City, one in Moncton, N.B., one in Perth, Ontario, one in Fredericton, N.B., who practiced law in Saskatoon and one in Morden, Manitoba, who practiced law in Vancouver.

This is not good enough. It is not nearly good enough. And the West should voice the most vigorous protest against this blatant sectional discrimination.

It is perhaps argued that since the bulk of Canada's population lies east of the Great Lakes, the representation in Canada's highest court should be proportionate.

This does not necessarily follow. In fact, it does not follow at all.

On the contrary, the West should be strongly represented on the supreme court by reason of that very paucity of population.

The supreme court, now the highest judicial body in Canada constitutional issues, is the only agency capable of protecting sectional minorities from the economic pressure of sectional majorities.

And since the West, in many instances, has already experienced this economic pressure from the East, it is vital to Canada's balanced progress that western rights be safeguarded on the supreme judicial body.

This is particularly true and especially vital at a time when Canada is contemplating constitutional changes and when those contemplated constitutional changes are bound to make provincial rights, in the West as elsewhere, a matter of prime concern.

In such constitutional changes, population, as it stands at present, has nothing to do with the points at issue.

For the court will not be dealing with groups of people as they exist at present, but with groups of people as they will be portioned throughout Canada in generations to come.

The court will be dealing with matters based on natural wealth and resources in which the West is infinitely more important than the East.

The unbalanced nature of the supreme court, as it now stands at seven to two, is an unhappy thing for Canada.

Best Wishes For Those in the North

It's good to read in the papers that the service boys up north report they will have the Kee bird on their Christmas menu.

The Kee bird, you may not know, is a bit of game that flits about the white wastes wailing, "keeripes, it's cold."

But the North West Air Command in Edmonton reports the boys up there will have Kee birds at the festive table and it reports it on authority of the boys themselves who add those with weak stomachs may have their choice of turkey and plum pudding.

This Kee bird report is a good thing because it shows the country, or at least this part of it, has a sense of humor and a sense of humor has carried many countries through many a bitter times.

And it's a good omen for those young men stationed up north, or down north, as the saying goes. There was a time when only people who went north were police, trappers, fur buyers or those who wished to escape from something.

These young men who are talking about the Kee bird aren't there because they want to be. Duty for which they volunteered put them there.

The country salutes them at any time of the year.

And to them—and the missionaries, the Mounties, radio men, meteorological workers—the very best at this season.

"He's Just a Man, Dressed Up"

One small Edmonton girl is reported to have made a vital discovery, during the past few days, with regard to Santa Claus.

Perhaps the multiplicity of Santa Clauses on public display enlightened her. Perhaps she arrived at her startling conclusion because she had noted that the genial saint appears in one place short and stout and in another tall and gaunt.

But, at any rate, she was disturbed by it, and this is what she confided to her mother:

"There isn't really a Santa Claus; he's just a man, dressed up."

Well now, when the realism of experience begins to catch up with the delightful myths of childhood, there is nothing very much that one can do about it.

And so the parents of this little girl admitted that she was right, that there wasn't really a man who flew over the housetops in a sleigh drawn by reindeer, but that Santa Claus was only a symbol of the Christmas spirit which is the spirit of giving just as Christmas is the giving of God.

But the child, we think, had made a much more profound discovery than her parents realized at first sight.

For Santa Claus is just a man dressed up.

He is a man dressed up, not in the scarlet suit and the white whiskers and the tasselled cap and the false stomach, but dressed up in something far more rare and lovely.

Usually, but not always, he is a father. All year long he has worked hard and sometimes he has been grumpy and impatient and sometimes a little worried and perhaps unjust.

But December comes and with it the thrill and expectation of Christmas which no one ever grows too old to feel.

So this father, or whoever he is, begins to haunt the stores and buys this and buys that, not because he values his purchases, but because they represent the love he bears his family.

And giving out of love transforms him, as it transforms everybody.

And, of course, the little girl is right. Santa Claus is just a man dressed up—but dressed up in the smile and happiness of Christmas which is the finest garment in the world.

ON THE RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

Support UN or Lose All Moral Leadership

An article that recently appeared in the New York Times by the distinguished military commentator Hanson Baldwin, has caused this columnist concern, because we fear it reflects the view of those in the American armed forces. This view is, apparently, that was is inevitable.

Commenting on the change in the atomic energy picture, Mr. Baldwin says, "It calls for a new concept for the extension of the rule of law." The approach suggested is to abandon the idea of a strengthened United Nations—in short, hope for abolishing war—as "brave words and bright dreams," and admit that there has always been war, and always will be, as far as anyone can foresee; and that the necessity of conflict "resides in the nature of man." Therefore, instead of trying to abolish war we should try to devise such laws governing its conduct, as "at times and in certain areas of history have been generally obeyed."

Unreal Theory

Now, I cannot imagine a more pessimistic and unrealistic theory. Although there may have been eras—the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries for instance—when it was an unwritten rule of war to do as little damage as possible to one's enemy, the wars where the rule applied were within a far more unified civilization than exists today, and were between professional armies, not whole peoples.

The Congress of Vienna that ended the Napoleonic wars, in which the defeated nation actively participated, revealed a moderation based on recognition of basic community of interest which has been present at no subsequent peace conferences. The totalitarian spirit in war is part of the modern temper, and it is not exorcised by Hague conventions.

Furthermore, wars have been destructive in proportion to technological progress in weapons. Sometimes fear of reprisal has withheld them; more often actual tests of them as effective weapons have let to their abandonment. Poison gas was used in World War I, but did not determine the outcome and was abandoned. But bombing, though it was obviously a two-way weapon, was not abandoned in World War II—and President Truman already has said that he would use the A-bomb again!

It is precisely the totality of modern war that spurs the passion for its abolition in an efficient world organization for peace. And if wars arise from "the nature of man," it is imperative to ask why war and preparation for it are made today in the name of "peace." That, at least, is new! In previous epochs, political leaders candidly regarded war as the court of last appeal, and little or no sense of evil was attached to it.

This is not so today. The "nature of man" is so in revolt against war that it is necessary to prepare all peoples for it by years of previous propaganda, in which each war-preparing act is explained as a step toward peace, and all aggression is pictured as defence. Even Hitler never dared to candidly tell the German people that he was planning war to redress their grievances. Bismarck, who waged a series of wars (for strictly limited objectivees) could count on popular support without hypocrisy. Yet hypocrisy is concession to popular conscience.

Largely Fiction

The idea that there is no "favorable" climate" for an all-out attempt to create a real world organization for peace is not true. If the UN is largely a fiction, it is because the men who made it were hostile to an all-out solution, and especially hostile were the military advisers of all great powers. But to assume that the professional military correctly represent "the nature of man" is presuming a lot.

It may be impossible to abolish war when there is no means of communicating ideas to the peoples of some nations. But the idea that it would be easier to persuade the Russians (or our military) to confine themselves to a nice gentlemanly war, should war come, than to organize for permanent peace seems to this columnist fictional.

The United Nations was created by timid intellects who accepted its inherent weaknesses. But if the United States prepares to scuttle it, instead of perpetually advocating its strengthening, in favor of an argument about the nature of man—startlingly reminiscent of Pan-German perorations—then the United States will lose whatever moral leadership it possesses.

Article Misleading

Editor, Bulletin—We have received here a clipping from your November 2nd issue, covering an article titled "Radical Changes Now Needed to Meet Starvation of Soil." The author is indicated as Stan Burke, Bulletin staff writer.

We wish to take vigorous exception to several of the statements in this article, particularly to the references to fertilizer. We consider these references incorrect, misleading and against the best interests of agriculture.

Your attention is drawn to publications by the department of soils, University of Alberta, and by the provincial advisory fertilizer committee, copies of which can be secured from the deparment of soils, and the offices of the field crops commissioner, department of agriculture, Edmonton.

Tomato Sauce

Editor, Bulletin—The people of this country are being victimized by the canning industry.

Forced to forage for myself one recent supper-time. I resorted to a can of "pork and beans", stocked in our pantry for just such emergencies. Although fully cognizant beforehand that it would be no gastronomical delight, and realizing that it contained ingredients I dislike, I was repelled by the reddish-brown mixture that issued forth from can to sauce-pan.

Tomato sauce!

I returned to scrutinize the pantry shelves. There were cans of soup, spaghetti and meat balls. I was trapped. Seventy-five percent of canned soup is liberally endowed with tomato, both the spaghetti and meatballs are immersed in the loathed condiment.

Surely I am not alone in my aversion for tomato sauce. If so, is there nowhere we can appeal our case to have this bete noir sticken from our diets? Are we so in a minority that it is impractical for processors to pack pork and beans, perhaps in molasses, or do I stand alone in a universe of tomato sauce lovers?

Advertising these products, the manufacturer has the effrontery to label them "just as mother used to make it." I resent the inference that my mother ever hid her delicious manifestations of the culinary art behind the taste-killing fog of tomato sauce.

To my mind there is nothing so nauseating as to watch a thoughtless diner conceal a rich, succulent beefsteak beneath that brilliant red preparation of tomato sauce, ketchup.

To each his own, they say, but it appears certain we connoisseurs of unadorned comestibles are fated never to get our own from a can.

We can only conclude that the canning concerns are in collusion with the tomato interests and that in time people will have forgotten the original taste of what they ingest at their tables. Who knows what is in store for us then?

Christmas Greeting

Editor, Bulletin.—Now and then we like to salute our friends with no other motive than to give a word of greeting and to tell them how much we appreciate the kind services they have rendered to us. And could there be a better time to do this than on this festive occasion?

We of the 49th Battalion, the Loyal Edmonton Regiment Association have called on your newspaper many times for assistance in publicizing our various functions and you have never failed to give us the utmost of your co-operation and support. For this we are extremely grateful.

Once again, I am very happy indeed to express to you, your associates, and all members of your staff, the very sincere thanks of all members of the 49th Battalion, The Loyal Edmonton Regiment Association for your continued valuable assistance and co-operation throughout the past year, and to wish you one and all a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

'Black Death' Problem

By WALTER RUNDLE

Plague, although it was wiped out in Europe in the 18th century, is still a "very grave problem," in the Asiatic countries, the United Nations World Health Organization reports.

WHO will begin the first international demonstration of plague eradiction work in history early next year in the Bombay province of India. Later, it hopes to continue the program in Marocco, the Belgian Congo and China.

The "black death," which killed hundreds of thousands of Europeans between the 14th and 18th centuries, still claimed 95,000 victims in China and India in 1947-48, according to WHO. The mortality rate is generally as high as 50 per cent. Between 1898 and 1935, the rodent-borne disease accounted for the death of 2,000,000 Asiatics.

Plague also occurs in some Latin-American countries, and the control program recommended by WHO's expert plague committee is based on a similar program carried out in Peru from 1945 to 1949.

The WHO bulletin said drugs discovered during recent years have contributed to "great progress" in curbing the disease. Discovery of insecticides such as DDT, along with the sulpha drugs and streptomycin, "have given greater hope for conquering this age-old scourge," the bulletin said.

Under a plan drawn up by WHO's evpert committee, teams would be sent to work in India and other sedected areas in collaboration with local teams provided by the national governments

The teams would spend five or six years in the area, since plague may break out, disappear, and then return in a similar period of time.

Working on the theory that suppressive measures are not enough, the teams also would be concerned with improving sanitation, especially housing, to break the association between rats and man."

A vital part of the program would be a request to national health administrations to improve their information facilities on the disease, determining and reporting more fully on the presence and extent of plague infection in their areas.

WHO also would aid national health administrations in carrying out plague control at sea and airports. This would include application of DDT powder at regular intervals, systematic "deratisation," spraying of merchandise with DDT or other effective insecticide to vehicles, and rat-proofing of buildings.

DDT would be applied to aircraft and to merchandise in airports which might contain infected fleas. Aircraft would be inspected in order to avoid transporation of rats in cases of epidemics, DDT powder would be applied to the garments and personal effects of passengers coming from the infected zone.

"In plague centers, the use of DDT, sodium fluoratate, and streptomycin, combined with the expert knowledge available today, will demonstrate in actual practice the ability of modern science to conquer one of man's most dreaded enemies," the WHO bulletin said

Auto Insurance Too High in Alta.

I recently complained about the cost of automobile insurance in Alberta.

In reply, a number of persons pointed out that accident rates were up, the cost of repairs was much higher and that many insurance companies were not very happy about accepting insurance on automobiles in Alberta even at the increased rate

Since then, there has been an announcement that rates are going up once more.

In contrast with this it costs $10.00 in Saskatchewan to obtain government insurance providing protection against collision with $100 deductible; public liability to $5,000 and $10,000; property damage to $1,000 with $100 deductible; fire and theft with $100 deductible plus a special accident benefit covering death claims up to $10,000; dismemberment up to $2,000; weekly indemnity for loss of income up to $2,400; medical and other expenses, together with a funeral expense of $125.

Ten dollars is the maximum. For cars of the 1932 models it is $4.50; 1933 to 1936 costs $6.00; 1937 to 1942 costs $8.00 and all models from 1942 on $10.00.

Extra Coverage Is Possible

The first objection is that this coverage is not the same as is usually obtained and there are many who object that the coverage is not enough. It is a great deal more than is applied to hundreds of Alberta cars carrying no insurance at all.

However, there is no point in arguing the completeness of this Saskatchewan insurance because provision is also made for extra coverage for those who wish to pay for it and if you take out an extra-coverage policy, you then have the following benefits:

Total collision damage less $25 deductible; public liability to $20,000 and $40,000; property damage $5,000 with no deduction; fire and theft with no deduction; passenger hazard $20,000 to $40,000; coverage against windstorm, hail, earthquake, riot, explosion, falling aircraft, flood, loss to car radio through collision, fire or theft.

If you compare that with most automobile policies you will discover that this provides considerably more coverage than is carried by most Alberta drivers. It also includes this special accident protection which is not included in standard commercial policies. The top cost for this complete coverage is a total of $28.50 for all models.

Again you may object that you do not like doing business with the Saskatchewan government and do not trust its low-cost insurance.

But, if so, you can go to a recognized commercial insurance company who will sell you a policy on your car which will supplement the basic Saskatchewan policy and provide you with coverage as complete as this $28.50 policy listed above.

With that you will have all the rights any motorist has against his insurance company.

The private companies quote this supplemental coverage at a flat rate of $24.00 for any kind of private car regardless of make or model, so long as it dates from and after 1932.

Thus the total cost of a combined government and private company policy to a Saskatchewan motorist is $34.00.

Too Wide A Gap To Be Justified

Compare this with the current insurance costs in Alberta and you will find this same coverage costing from $124.02 to $135.80 and up. That means automobile insurance costs Alberta motorists from two to four times what it costs in Saskatchewan. That is far too wide a gap to be justified on any ground.

What To Tell Kids About Santa Claus

The Ottawa Citizen has been opening its letters' column to pros and cons on whether children should be told the truth about Santa Claus. This is the kind of controversy I love—inconsequential, pretty well beaten to death already and one in which all the opinion in the world obviously won't make the slightest difference.

Since 1945 the subject has been kicked around annually by every commentator in the land and, sure enough, both sides are at it once more, viciously throwing feathers at each other.

Started in 1945, because that was the year when Major General Brock Chisholm, Ottawa psychiatrist, formerly deputy minister of health, and a man with little or no respect for our comfortable lethargy, came out (in khaki trunks) against our dear old Santa.

On the surface, the gentleman's views seemed to make a lot of sense. As I recall it, the general's idea was that children should be told the literal truth about everything. There was no reason, he said, why kids couldn't enjoy St. Nick by pretending, but let them believe in Santa as the real thing and their ideas would get all snarled up.

Once a youngster started believing in fairies or Santa as the McCoy he was headed hell-bent for a crack-up when he learned the horrid truth, would be forever doubtful about realities, would end up with a distorted conception of life, and Merry Christmas to you.

Sounded pretty logical to me (I am a pushover for the elaborate reasoning of psychiatry) but I see no likelihood of any change and I am willing to bet that Santa, like Abbott and Costello, will go on forever.

On To Ruin

Let us consider what would happen to a mother and father who decided to follow the general's advice. "Look," says the father to the mother, "we've got to put little Herkimer straight on this Santa Claus kick or the boy will grow up with a hole in his head." The mother agrees and father gets little Herkimer into a corner.

"Herkimer," the father says, "I must tell you the truth. There is no Santa Claus."

Instantly Herkimer will pale. His little lip will begin to tremble. If the kid has any moxey at all he has know this for several years, but he hates to spoil his parents' fun. If he is a typical boy he probably thinks they believe in Santa Claus.

"No, Herkimer," the father carries on. "There is no Santy. But you can pretend to believe in Santy if you wish."

Now this is precisely what nine out of ten kids are doing anyway, but put in this open manner, as a cold-blooded proposition, it will leave him with some frustrations never dreamed of by General Chisholm.

The kid will start to brooding. How can he pretend to believe in Santa Claus if the folks know he is just pretending? Why, it makes a boy look a proper fool!

But, on the other hand, if he doesn't pretend then Christmas clearly isn't going to be as much fun as it used to be. And if he pretends real hard then he'll get to believing it, because as any boy knows, that's the whole idea of pretending. What's the use of pretending if you know you are pretending?

Imagine this chaos in Herkimer's little cranium. Soon he will begin to stare moodily out of the window or perhaps even begin slashing at the chesterfield cushions with daddy's razor blade.

Other children in the block will shun him as "the boy who knows." On being taken to the lap of some department store Santa he may decide that the whole thing is a disgusting sham and simply set fire to Santa's beard.

Children Learning

Appears to me as-if the participants in this seasonal debate, whatever side they may be on, overlook completely the depths of the juvenile mind. I speak now from some close and constant observation.

The whole of a child's early life mentally is a case of accepting and repecting a jumbled mass of evidence about life. And it's my view that he does this without any lasting scars. Disillusionment in those tender years is lightly worn. A child's fantasies are rarely smashed, but simply melt away.

Let the psychiatrists expound their theories. The fact is if any number of parents had been jolted in their youth by a discovery that Santa is not real, but just a remarkably pleasant idea, there'd be some pretty strenuous efforts made to protect their sons and daughters from a similar fate. But most of us believed in Mr. Claus the same way we belived in Peter Pan or Aladdin. When the truth was out the memory lingered on.

My own oldest daughter is probably typical (although I hate ot admit it.) In her earlier years, when pressed, she would concede a belief in Santa, but no man on earth could sell her the idea that the old boy got down our chimney. Later on there was just a tacit understanding that she was wised up, but willing to go along with the gang for the laughs.

Did the knowledge of our perjury, or of Santa's non-existence, cause any emotional upheaval in our little girl's life? I don't really know. I know only that she's mighty busy these days telling her two-year-old sister all about old St. Nick.

CONFLICT between two lovers and renowned despot Cesare Borgia, "Prince of Foxes" stars Wanda Hendrix, Tyrone Power and Orson Welles. Filmed entirely in Italy by Twentieth Century-Fox, "Prince of Foxes" starts today at Capitol Theatre here.

Italian Backdrop Used To Film Capitol Hit

An historical drama based on an espisode in the life of the Renaissance despot, Cesare Borgia, "Prince of Foxes" is a story of intrigue and romance.

Featuring Tyrone Power and Wanda Hendrix in the leading roles, "Prince of Foxes" tells the story of two lovers caught in the evil web of Cerare Borgia.

Filmed entirely in Italy, the show is made up of several stars from Hollywood, with a vast group of European actors in lesser roles.

Fifteenth century Italy, when the unscrupulous Borgia aspired to the dictatorship of an entire nation, is the setting for lotty intrigues.

Director Henry King has photographed the story entirely on the actual locales in which the action originally unfolded.

The rich inheritance of the centuries is abundantly evident everywhere in Italy, and the principal task of art directors Lyle Wheeler and Mark-Lee Kirk was sifting available edifices for the finest examples of Renaissance design.

For the finest in setting and plot, "Prince of Foxes" is a must for every movie-goer. "Prince of Foxes" starts today at the Capitol theatre.

Runaway Truck Kills Pair In Car

CHEROKEE, Ia., Dec. 23—(AP)—A truck trailer loaded with a seven-ton bulldozer hurtled out of control down Cherokee's main street yesterday, killing two persons, injuring three and damaging about 20 cars. The dead were extricated from the wreckage of their car, which one witness said was "rolled up like a piece of paper" under the big truck as it ended its wild flight.

The first zoo in the United States was established in Philadelphia in 1847.

McNaughton Paid $14,000

OTTAWA, Dec. 23—(CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, newly-appointed member of the International Joint Commission, received $14,000 a year as Canada's permanent delegate to United Nations in New York, a government source said yesterday.

The amount included $10,000 as salary from external affairs and $4,000 from his pension as a retired Canadian army officer.

The source said that Gen. McNaughton retired from the army at $14,000 a year. There is a government regulation which states that a man who retires from one government post cannot receive more than the amount of his pension when he takes another government post.

Gen. McNaughton, who takes over his new post when his new work job ends Dec. 31, is expected to receive about $14,000 as a member of the International Joint Commission. This would be made up of $7,500 in salary as a commissioner and $6,500 from his army pension.

Gables Sail For Hawaii Honeymoon

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23—(AP)—Clark Gable and his bride—"outrageously happy," they said—headed for a Honolulu honeymoon yesterday. The actor and the former Sylvia Hawkes Ashley Fairbanks Stanley will board the liner Lurline at San Francisco, planning to spend about two weeks in the Hawaiian Islands.

U.S. Moves to Tighten Science Data Leakage

By Charles Molony

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The United States government today tightened up its machinery for keeping scientific and technical data from going to Russia.

The commerce department announced that "in exceptional cases it will impose an outright ban on export of technical information which is "significant to the national security."

The obvious object—though not stated in the official statement—is to keep such information from reaching the Soviets.

The main aim is to help a private firm withhold matter affecting national security when the firm has a contract that would be breached by refusing to make shipments.

This is the background:

Recently, the department set up a "voluntary control plan" over export of information. It asked Americans to get an opinion from it before exporting data which might have a security value.

ADVICE GIVEN

Some firms requested advice and were given opinions against sending the date abroad. Later, they reported they would like to withhold it, but feared lawsuits for breach of contract.

The imposition of bans on export is intended to relieve these persons from danger of suit, since they can show the shipment was forbidden by U.S. government action.

No ban is likely to be imposed except in case where the prospective shipper of information takes his problem to the commerce department.

Officials said no complete ban could be imposed unless there was a censorship of all mail leaving the United States. They stressed there is no intention whatsoever of setting up such a censorship.

Inside Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, — (AP) — What are the deathless quotes of the year in Hollywood?

Maybe some of these won't live into the second half-century, but they seemed out of the ordinary to me. Here are some of the bright, pointed or inane sayings that I have collected from the 1949 news:

Robert Mitchum, commenting on his sentence at the County Detention Farm: "It's an experience every taxpayer should go through."

Laurence Olivier, after winning the Academy awards: "I always did say Shakespeare was a good script writer."

Actor Paul Valentine, divorcing strip teaser Lili St. Cyr: "Everybody in the country could see more of her than I did."

Milton Berle, answering an attack on him by Allen: "Allen still has the first penny ever thrown at him."

FRUSTRATED MASON

James Mason: "Hollywood is filled with frustration, but not uninhabitable."

Claudette Colbert, disapproving French bathing suits: "Of the many features of a woman's anatomy, one of the least attractive is the navel.

Mae West: "I'm still looking for the right man. My trouble is I find so many right ones it's hard to decide."

Clifton Webb: "There's no use pretending I'm a modest fellow . . . Some day I shall write a song called 'I fascinate me.'"

Shelley Winters, after returning from a blustery location: "I was so cold I almost got married."

AND THE SHIMMY

Description of the "Shimmy" in Gilda Gray's suit against the picture "Gilda": "A rhythmical shivering and shaking of parts of the body, synchronized and performed in a personalized syncopated musical rhythm and accompanied with appropriate songs."

Linda Darnell, decrying the "Boyish Look" in fashions: "Why can't women look like women and men look like men. That's what makes life more interesting."

Jimmy Durante, telling about rubbing elbows with socialites at the opera opening: "I had to rub elbows—nobody would shake hands with me."

Bob Thomas, to his readers: "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

The average value of occupied farm land in Canada was estimated at $35 an acre in 1947.

Walked 28,000 Miles

NEW DELHI — (CP) — Indian globe trotter D. K. Rajagopal has completed a walking tour of Tibet, Burma, Ceylon and parts of China and Japan that began in February, 1935. In that time he has covered more than 28,000 miles but he isn't stopped yet—he's planning tours in Europe Africa and America.

Time Out

By Dick Beddoes

IRISH JIMMY NOLAN

I listened with interest to some remarks delivered the other day by Mr. Jackson Berry, Edmonton fight promoter regarding Irish Jimmy Nolan.

And, as could be plainly heard with the naked ear, Berry would very much like to have the 'paper' on Mr. Nolan, if you'll pardon the colloquialism.

In fact, Berry talked so long and loud about the young welterweight's virtues that he could—with reason—have hired a hall.

Nolan, it develops, is the western Canadian welter king, and a pretty good one at that. At least, according to eyewitness Berry, he was very efficient in administering knockout drops to tough Hal Robbins last week in Calgary.

HE POPS 'EM OVER

Calgary critics have watched Mr. Nolan pop over a long series of parties of the second part since he came to Cowtown three years ago.

The New Brunswick-born Nolan has come a 'fur piece', as they say in Georgia, under the tutelage of Ernie Farr. And Mr. Farr, in turn, has benefitted by Nolan's presence in Calgary.

The young easterner is essentially a blocker and a good counter puncher.

He is a smooth and effective operator on the offence, and hits so well with both hands, that equal skill in defence would make him pretty nearly unbeatable, especially while fighting guys in his own league.

HOLIDAYING HERE

As it is, good boys like the aforesaid Robbins sometimes make him look like a green pea on the defence, although you would never believe this on viewing the unscarred topography of his face.

Right now Irish Jimmy is holidaying in Edmonton with a fistic companion named Ernie Kemick, who can also belt you a pretty good one if you thrust your mandible toward him for more than a second at a time.

But let us not digress. Kemick is a good lightweight and distinctly a comer, but Nolan is a sectional champion and the most-talked-about pugilist in Alberta today.

While there is some talk of the good-looking Nolan meeting a Montrealer called Frenchy Ferland for the dominion crown, James' next bout is likely to be with a character known as Bob Foster.

A SECOND AL LUST?

Foster, reputedy is a ferocious fellow who is blazing a trail with right hooks in the middle western United States. Farr expects to get the pair together in Calgary before January has run its course.

Edmonton's Berry, of course, has altered his opinion of this Nolan kid since seeing the Robbins go. Earlier, Berry charged that Nolan ignored Benny Geary when the latter paged him for a scrap two months ago.

But Berry and Nolan are now pretty much of one mind on the subject of Geary, i.e., Jimmy could handle Benny pretty much as he pleased, anytime he wants to.

In contemplating welterweights the boys in western Canada like to look for a "second Al Lust" (the Medicine Hat product who carved quite a career for himself in the days immediately preceding A. Hitler).

I do not go so far as to say they can stop looking now, but Irish Jimmy will do for a second Al Lust until the true model comes along.

And it will have to be quite a model, at that, to move him aside.

Annual UCT 'Spiel Opens Boxing Day at Royal Club

One of the most popular sporting events on the Christmas calendar — the annual United Commercial Travellers bonspiel — is scheduled for Dec. 26 - 29.

Royal club, in the west end, will be the scene of the doings when the 'Knights of the Road', as someone long ago dubbed them, forget accounts, territories and the like for a peirod of four days.

Total of four events will be contested.

HODGINS NO. 1 WINNER

Primary competition is the Blue Ribbon, won last year by the Larry Hodgins-skipped rink. Hodgins, who qualified for the round robin series in the first carspiel held in Edmonton, close to two months ago, turned back skip George Snowden in last year's wind-up.

It is expected that both Hodgins and Snowden will be taking another shot again this time.

Other competitions consist of British Consols, Edmonton Motors and McBeath.

DR. O'NEILL THIS ONE

In the 1948 'spiel, Dr. Ambrose O'Neill bounced Bett Croft, one time ace outfielder in City Senior Baseball league circles, in the final of the British Consols, No. 1 event.

Calibre of curling generally is high when the UCT gang and their friends get together for their annual sesion of besom an' stane.

And certainly the contestants manage to snare their share of the Yuletide fun and enjoyment going the rounds.

Monday's (Boxing Day) opening draws will be carried in tomorrow's editions.

STUKUS TO SCOUT SHRINE BOWL GAME

Eskimo football coach Annis Stukus will leave Edmonton next week to scout the Shrine Bowl game in San Francisco on New Year's Eve.

Manager Al Anderson may also make the 'Frisco jaunt in an effort to secure top-grade American imports for the Eskimos.

The Esks are specifically interested in three Texas Christian University stars, namely quarterback Lindy Barry, tackle Don Narrell, and fullback John Morton. The latter two will be under special survey by Stukus since he has let it be known that he wants four American linemen and one plunging fullback.

Stukus and Anderson expect to be away 10 days or so, picking up numerous contacts on the west coast in addition to watching East play West in the Shrine classic.

See Better Deal For Canuck Open

TORONTO, Dec. 23 — (CP) — Canadian Open Golf championship, slated for Montreal in 1950, took on added stature yesterday.

Dr. A. W. (Whit) Matthews, member of the board of governors and a past president of the Royal Canadian Golf association, returned from the annual meeting of the Professional Golfers' association of America with news of a three-way recognition which is expected to attract more top-flight United States golfers to the Canadian event.

Dr. Matthews, RCGA delegate to the meeting at Mid ,Pines to the meeting at Mid Pines, North Carolina, reported that in future the Canadian Open would be listed among the events for which U.S. Ryder cup points will be given.

He also received assurance that prize winnings in the $10,000 event will be included in the compilation of the top-money winners of the year among U.S. pros.

Moreover, the PGA scores posted in the Canadian Open will be regarded as official scores for annually to the U.S. professional the Vardon trophy presented with the lowest average over the year. It was won this year by Sam Snead, a former Canadian Open champion.

RASSLERS IN TAG-TEAM OFFERING

Pity the poor ring.

Al Oeming will offer a tag-team match as the No. 1 box-office lure on his Tuesday rasslin' card at the Stock Pavilion.

The tag-team effort will see close to 1,000 pounds of heaving grunting matmen turned loose at one and the same time.

Here are the behemoths who will mix it: Pistol Pete Managoff (240 pounds) teamed with Stu Hart (229) against Al (Mr. Murder) Mills (248), paired with Jerry Meeker (235).

Pat McGill-Stan Dusek and Lloyd Yakimowich-Danny Viloski clashes will complete the card.

Tigers Claw Vegreville Rangers

VERMILION, Dec. 23—Vermilion Tigers whipped Vegreville Rangers 6-2 in an eastern Alberta hockey league game played here last night.

Sam Soldan, former University of Alberta defenceman, paced the winners with two goals and an assist, while Rowe contributed two goals. Other Tiger marksmen were Baldock and Maskell.

LONDON, Dec. 23—(AP)—Tug-of-war, the British air ministry decided today, is too rough a sport for women. It sent out an order that women members of the RAF are henceforth barred from taking part in it.

Colonels Beaten 6-4 At Camrose

CAMROSE, Dec. 23—Goals scored by Servold and Burrows late in the third period gave Camrose a 6-4 victory over the hard driving Wetaskiwin Colonels here last night in a Central Alberta Intermediate Hockey league game.

Each team scored twice in a wide-open first period. In the second period Maroons fired two goals to take the lead.

Within one minute after Wetaskiwin tied up the score in the third period, Servold scored his second goal of he evening. Then with 50 seconds left in the game Burrows shot one home to cinch the game for Camrose.

Scoring stars for the losers was Brown with two goals and an assist.

DINNER HOUR GOOD THING AT TROPICAL

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 23—A chestnut gelding named Dinner Hour ran for his dinner yesterday and did a good job. He ran away with the Doncaster purse at Tropical Park here.

Dinner Hour took the lead after six furlongs and pulled away to win by six lengths. Happy Victor was second and Pellicle third.

The 3-2 favorite Mi Prfferido—led out of the gate but ran out of gas when Dinner Hour challenged and took the lead.

Dinner Hour paid $6.70, $3.30, and $2.70.

MR. MACK IN FORM

Still Talks 'Big' After 87 Years

By Charles Welsh

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23—(AP)—The lean, lively old gent was talking on his favorite subject and there was a special glint in his eye, a sort of golden anniversary glint.

You would never have guessed, looking at him yesterday, that Connie Mack was celebrating — quietly — his 87th birthday.

Next season will be his 50th year, his golden anniversary, as manager of Philadelphia Athletics. And Connie, seated in the high-backed red-leather chair in his trophy-crowded Shibe Park office was looking ahead for the benefit of sportswriters and newscasters.

SEES "GOOD SEASON"

"I think it will be a good season. And I'm hoping to win one more pennant," he said, adding:

BOB DILLINGER

"Our club will be stronger, but so will the whole American league."

Ticking off the points one by one on his long, bony fingers that still show the knots and scars of his catching days three score years ago, Connie summed up the A's this way:

"A stronger infield with Bob Dillinger, an adequate outfield, though we're still looking for that long-ball hitter; good catching from Joe Tipton and Joe Astroth, and a better year for our pitching staff.

"I hope we can win that way, if things go all right. Boston, the Yankees, Cleveland, Detroit (Connie named them in that order) all will be hard to beat. I think the White Sox will be the surprise of the league. But I think, and hope, we can win.

WILL STILL TRADE

"We're still ready and willing to trade," he went on. We offered Detroit $150,000 and five players for Gerry Priddy. We offered St. Louis $300,000 and five players in one deal that didn't work out before we got Dillinger.

GERRY PRIDDY

"I'll talk trade with any club if I think our team can be helped."

Connie listed as tops among his off-season improvements the addition of Mickey Cochrane, Jimmy Dykes and Bing Miller to the A's coaching staff. He was ready to argue that "without any doubt we now have the best coaching staff in baseball."

Ortiz in Middle Promoters' Beef

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (AP) — Two London fight promoters are fighting over a fighter.

The man in demand is Manuel Ortiz, the world's bantamweight champion from El Centro, Calif.

Promoter Jack Solomons announced recently that Ortiz had agreed to defend his title here Feb. 23, against Danny O'Sullivan of London.

But Jack Cappell of London, acting for Spanish promoter Jose Pesudo of Barcelona, says Ortiz has called him twice from California about a match title fight in Spain against European champion Luis Romero. Cappell says he offered Ortz $30,000.

Solomons says he has a cabled confirmation of his deal from Ortiz and the assurance of the International Boxing Club that Ortiz will appear in London. The British Board of Boxing Control says it regards the cable as a contract.

At his home at El Centro, Ortiz was quoted as saying he "was puzzled" why promoters Solomons and Pesudo should be arguing over his services.

"If I lose to O'Sullivan, I guess I won't fight Romero. But I wouldn't sign for both if I didn't think I could whip both."

CALGARY, Dec. 23 — (BUP) — California Mohawks, touring basketball team, defeated Mount Royal College 95 to 64 here last night.

Jack Lilja, of the Mohawks, scored 24 points, and Vern Riggins, of the same squad, 20.

'Riders Ink Masters For 3rd Hitch

OTTAWA, Dec. 23 — (BUP) — Walter Masters signed a 1950 contract yesterday as coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders for the third straight year, E. K. Emerson, president of the Big Four football club, announced.

"I am happy to have Wally Masters back as coach," he said. "We have started rebuilding already and not only have we some good new players signed, but we have also lined up some excellent prospects."

Masters said he felt his third try would be the lucky one and that he hoped to bring the Grey cup, emblematic of the Dominion championship, to Ottawa next fall.

Mercurys Win 5-0 From Arena Dukes

Macauley Paces Motormen As Calgary Squad Toppled

To 450 fans it looked like Waterloo Mercurys and Edmonton Athletic Club's Junior squad pitted against each other at the Gardens last night. But it was Calgary Dukes sporting EAC's sweaters. The sweaters, which have been on the backs of an unbeaten team all season, didn't bring the Calgary boys any luck as they suffered a 5-0 shut out.

Mayor Sid Parsons faced off the puck to open last night's game after a slight delay due to the changing of sweaters. Dukes, who have outfits very similar to Mercurys, agreed to don the EAC jerseys for the exhibition tilt.

Last night's win made it three in as many starts this week for Mercurys. They were playing their last game in Edmonton before leaving for Europe next Wednesday night. They are to tour Europe, and will represent Canada in the world amateur hockey tournament at Sweden in February.

Earlier this week they downed an intermediate all-star team from Edmonton District Hockey Association 17-1 and defeated an all-star squad from the Central Alberta Intermediate league 8-5.

Dukes, leaders in the Calgary Big Six Intermediate league, displayed plenty of power but seemed to lack Mercury's scoring touch.

Mercurys' Doug Macauley was the sharp shooter of the evening scoring two goals. Other Mercury markers were netted by Kilburn, Newsome and Allen.

Had there been a three star selection at last night's game, one definitely would have gone to Buchanan, goaler for Dukes. Despite being scored on five times, he gave a magnificent performance, consistently warding off shots as Mercurys broke through his weak defence.

Dukes' lone beef was that they need practice. It is so hard to get ice in Calgary they have played six games without benefit of practice.

Mercurys will play one more game in Canada before they hit Europe. On their way overseas they will stop at St. John N.B. for an exhibition game.

LINE-UPS

Dukes—Buchanan, Popovich, Hunt, McLeod, Blair, Pollock, Cassidy, Graham, Brown, Brooks, Bannan, Milton, Douglas, Robson.

Rangers Deal Away Bud Poile

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(AP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey league announced yesterday they had sold Bud Poile, a right winger, to Boston Bruins for an undisclosed cash sum and the rights to an unnamed amateur player.

Poile, a native of Fort William, Ont., will report to Boston in time to play at Toronto Saturday.

Bought from Detroit before the season opened, Poile was expected to add punch to the Rangers' attack, but proved a big disappointment.

Possessor of one of the hardest shots in hockey, the big winger failed to reach peak form with the blueshirts and had been used sparingly by coach Lynn Patrick in recent games. In 28 games, he scored only three goals.

Poile made his NHL debut in 1942 with Toronto Maple Leafs and saw service with both Chicago and Detroit before coming to the Rangers.

His most successful season was with the Black Hawks in 1947-48, when he racked up 25 goals and 29 assists.

Cal. Mohawks To Play Here

It was announced last night that California Mohawks, a touring basketball team, will definitely be dribbling the ball in Varsity gym, January 5-6.

Their opposition for these nights as yet has not been announced, but Waterloo Meteors definitely will tangle with them in one of the games.

Mohawk squad is composed entirely of western U.S. college stars, and last night defeated Royal College in Calgary to boost their wins to 13 straight.

One of their stars is six-foot centre, Vernon Riggins. He was voted all-state last year while playing for Fresno State College. Two more Mohawks that will need plenty of watching are 6' 5" Tom Tryon who was with University of California last year and tips the scales at 200 pounds, and Ross Lunbrek, called "best in the west." Lunbrek is 6' 1" and was also with U of C last year.

Oregon has devoted more than 60,000 acres to state parks and recreational facilities.

Report MacPherson Injured

Slipping around: there's a report prevalent that Bud MacPherson, giant, ex-Flyer defenceman now with Cincinnati of the American Hockey loop, has come up with a fractured ankle. If true, it represents a tough break (no pun, son) for the big fellow, what with Montreal Canadiens, parent club of the Cincy gang, shot through with injuries and desperately in need of reinforcements . . . Recent decision of Cy Thomas to turn his back on University of Saskatchewan, in favor of devoting all his time to furthering the fortunes of the Saskatoon Quakers, represents the reverse of the oldtime, fight manager's story. "De kid," this particular manager explained away the loss of his best prospect, "could've been a great champ, but he had no ambition. He quit the fight game to go to college." . . . Don Robertson, former Canadian and Wetaskiwin junior, is a member of that Colorado 'U' squad that knocked off Saskatchewan Huskies by 6-3 at Colorado Springs last night.

Try this quick-quiz for size (answer at end): Why is New Year's Day such a big event in the life of a thoroughbred?

Was It the Pressure?

Add yuh - gotta - save - a - few - hits - for - the - right - time dept.: Ted Williams, who lost out to Detroit's George Kell by a fraction of a point for American league swat honors, rapped close to 200 hits during the 1949 season. However he was held to one safe knock over the last four contests that saw the Williams and his Boston Red Sox mates blow the pennant to New York Yankees . . . Amateur mittman Alf Tansey and associates made a few bucks (24, someone has said) out of their recent fight card at the Stock Pavilion, expect to shoot with another simon-pure offering, comes Jan. 26. Once again the 'Edmonton Boys Boxing club' tag will be pinned to the show . . . Better get out 'them' skis, chum, and head off for Banff, just as a party of U. of A. great-outdoors enthusiasts plan to do next week. Clarence Haakenstad will lead a group of 10 members of the green-and-gold team to the mountain resort, leaving here Boxing Day. They'll stay six days.

Add sign-of-the-times dept.: Lou Davies reports that horse-racing is appreciably off in Florida, compared with a year ago. At the same time rents also are off — some 35 per cent, according to the form chart man.

Of Rocco and Mr. America

Do the names Argentina Rocco and Mr. America ring the bell? Even if they don't this pair of rasslers, aided and abetted by such sundry other grunt-and-groaners as Primo ("I weel keel heem") Carnera, and 'Tug' Karlson (remember him?) still managed to pack Madison Square Gardens, New York, recently to the tune of — it ain't peanuts — $50,791. Quoting Al (The Boy Promoter) Oeming: "Wrestling is doing a big comeback in parts of the United States where the going has been a little rough these past few years." He credits the upswing in interest to the influence of television. Little more than a year ago Gorgeous George lured less than $5,000 through the gate at Madison Square, despite the fact that he was a big draw in many other centres . . . Looks like Medicine Hat is getting the baseball bug in a big way. In any event diamond leaders in the southern Alberta city have approached John Ducey with the idea of having Big Four league teams show their wares down that way next summer. Once upon a time The 'Hat boasted a professional ball club.

Gala Hour, 18-year old stud recently purchased by an Edmonton group, will not be installed at Murray Hill Stockfarm, North Edmonton, until the middle of January.

(Answer to quick-quiz: All thoroughbreds are a year older New Year's Day.)

Bowl Games Lack Unbeaten Teams

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(UP)—That fabled day when two unbeaten football giants clashed in a "classic" bowl game belonged to the past as twice and thrice beaten teams prepared to do battle come the New Year.

With most of the returns in, here is the line-up for the major Jan. 2 affairs:

Rose Bowl—California vs Ohio state.

Sugar Bowl — Oklahoma vs Louisiana state.

Cotton Bowl—Rice vs North Carolina.

Orange Bowl—Santa Clara vs Kentucky.

California and Oklahoma are unbeaten and untied. But otherwise? well—

Ohio State, the visiting team in the Rose Bowl, lost to Minnesota, 27-0, and was tied by Southern California, 13-13, and Michigan, 7-7.

Louisiana State, Oklahoma's Sugar Bowl foe, lost to Kentucky, 19-0, and Georgia, 7-0. However, in defense of the Tigers, it must be pointed out that they hold victories over three conference champions, two of them bowl teams. They beat North Carolina, Southern Conference Champ, 13-7; Rice, Southwest Conference Champ, 14-7, and bounced into its bowl bid with a 21-0 lashing of Tulane, Southeastern Conference champ.

North Carolina moved into the Cotton Bowl with a 14-7 victory over Virginia, but before that lost to three teams—LSU, Tennessee by 35-6 and Notre Dame by 42-6. Rice, the southwest champ by virtue of its 21-7 conquest of Baylor, lost only to LSU—quite a record by 1949 bowl team standards.

'Slide Rule' Kell Edges Williams

By Jerry Liska

CHICAGO, Dec. 23—(AP)—Detroit's George Kell, first third baseman ever to do the trick, yesterday officially was proclaimed American league batting champion by an unprecedented eyelash margin of two ten-thousands of a point.

Official figures for the blistering 1949 stick race disclosed the Tiger star thwarted a bid by Boson's Ted Williams for a fifth hitting crown on the last day of the season, .3429 to .3427.

Boston won the team batting title with a .282 mark, 13 points ahead of the champion New York Yankees.

Four times previously a league batting championship was settled by a one-point margin, but this was the first time the statisticians had to get out the slide-rule for a fractional reading.

TED WILLIAMS
. . . Bang-Up 2nd

WILLIAMS PLAYED MORE

Final accounting credited Kell with 179 hits in 522 times at bat, compared to Williams' 194 blows in 566 trips. Kell played in 134 games and Williams in 155.

For the injury-plagued Kell, the performance fulfilled the potentiality with a stick demonstrated when the Bengal ace led all minor league hitters in 1943 with a .396 mark for Lancaster of the Inter-State league.

Best hitting mark for an American league third baseman is the .347 registered in 1912 by J. Franklin (Home-Run) Baker of Philadelphia.

Although Williams failed to retain his batting title, the Splendid Splinter led the league in four specialized departments — home runs, with 43; runs scored, 150; total bases, 368; and two-base hits, 39—one more than Kell.

IS FORMER RULER

Williams won the hitting crown in 1948 wtih .369. His other title marks were .343 in 1947, .356 in 1942, and .406 in 1941. Before reaching his peak this year, Kell batted .322, .320 and .304 for the Tigers.

Third place in the 1949 hitting race went to another third baseman, Bob Dillinger of St. Louis with .324. Dillinger last week was traded to Philadelphia for whom Kell played in 1944-45.

Fourth spot went to Dale Mitchell of Cleveland with .317, followed by Bobby Doerr, Boston, with .309; Cass Michaels of Chicago with .308; Dom Di Maggio, Boston, .307; and Johnny Pesky of Boston and Roy Sievers of St. Louis, with .306 each.

Phil Rizzuto of New York led in sacrifices with 25, while Dillinger was tops in base-stealing with a modest total of 20, two more than Rizzuto.

PHILADELPHIA. — (UP)—Otis Graham, 151, Philadelphia, stopped Honeychile Johnson, 146, Philadelphia (7).

Oakland Players Get Jobs

SEATTLE, Dec. 23—(AP)—Players of Eddie Shore's disbanded Oaklands Oaks of the Pacific Coast Hockey league have been widely distributed to other clubs.

Most of the players stayed in the Coast league, but five men have been posted to Shore's American league team, the Springfield Indians.

Vancouver Canucks got Eric Unger, centre, and other moves included:

To San Diego—Bill Jonees, left wing; Stan Jones, right wing and Lawrence May, defence.

San Francisco took Danny Nixon, defence, while Paul Courteau, centre was sold to Louisville.

Goalie Nip O'Hearn and centre Mike Narduzzi were transferred to Springfield and Shore has similar plans for wing Eric Prentice, defenceman Red Kane and centre Joe Iannerallí.

Oaks disbanded Monday, Shore finding it impossible to operate in Oakland because of poor attendance and lack of interest in the game there.

W. KYLE, McCULLOUGH TO TRY NHL BRAND

REGINA, Dec. 23 — (BUP) — Two Western Canada Hockey league players will be joining National Hockey league clubs for short periods after the New Year.

Bill Kyle, Regina Caps, will go to New York Rangers and 'Chuck' McCullough of Saskatoon Quakers will join Montreal Canadiens for a three-game stint. Both NHL clubs have been hit by injuries recently.

Kyle, who owns a sporting goods store in Regina with Brother Gus, will join his brother, who plays defence for the Rangers. Bill said he will leave Regina January 2nd or 3rd and would play two or three games with Rangers.

Chuck McCullough, also a right-hand forward, played for Regina Caps last season. He joined Quakers this fall after a prolonged squabble about his release from the Caps.

LOUIS ASKS THREE-MONTH RESPITE

DES MOINES, Dec. 23 —(AP)—Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion, said in a telephone interview yesterday that it will take possibly three more months to reach a definite decision on his comeback plans.

Louis, who appeared in an eight-round exhibition at Salt Lake City Wednesday night, was interviewed by Tony Cordaro, Des Moines Tribune sports writer.

Lloyd' Man 2nd Best Race-Driver

NEW YORK, DEC. 23—(AP)—Frank Ervin, 42-year-old trainer and driver from Aitken, S.C., was the leading money-winning reinsman on harness racing's Grand Circuit this year, with $179,771. This is believed to be a record in the 76-year history of the curcuit.

Grand circuit announced yesterday that Erwin, who was fifth a year ago with $89,268, replaced Ralph Baldwin, the 1948 leader. Baldwin, a native of Lloydminster, Sask., drove horses winning 219 last year. He slipped todlau $144,219 last year. He slipped to $135,473 this season.

Lund's Goal in Overtime Gives Wetaskiwin 5-4 Win

WETASKIWIN, Dec. 23—Lacombe and Wetaskiwin joined forces last night to defeat Edmonton Canadians 5-4 in overtime, in a fast and rugged game at Wetaskiwin.

Playing before some 200 fans in a closely contested duel, the homesters scored five goals in a row after being behind 4-0 at the end of the first for the win, and increased their lead over the third-place Canadians to three points in the Northern Alberta Junior Hockey league.

Norm Lund, fleet Wetaskiwin winger and a former Lacombe junior, was the bright-haired lad in the Wetaskiwin squad, as he scored the winning goal on a breakaway midway through the overtime session.

CANADIANS LEAD 4-0

Previously, the visitors scored four goals without a reply in the first period and looked as if they would emerge the victors. Canadians built their early lead on goals by Bill Hodgson, Al Mawhinney, Gord Dromrosky and Gene Achtymichuk.

Wetaskiwin was held off the scoresheet until late in the middle stanza, largely because of the stellar netminding of pudgy Nick Pundick in Canadians' nets. It was Doug Campbell who finally put Roy Bently's team on the scoresheet, scoring the first of his two goals at 13:25.

"Joltin' Joe" McGinley, Wetaskiwin defenceman, scored their second goal a minute and 20 seconds later to whittle the northern crew's lead to two goals.

In the third period Dale McKee connected for Wetaskiwin and left-winger Campbell fired his second goal, a timely one, at 14:59 of the final period to tie the game at 4-4. The overtime provided Lund with his chance to pot the winner.

CANADIANS ROBBED

Canadians were "robbed" of the win when a goal they scored just seconds before the third period ended, was disallowed. High-scoring Gene Achtymichuk cut in along the right side, after taking a pass from Don Fraser, and let go a shot. McPhederon, in the Wetaskiwin cage, caught it but had trouble hanging on, and the puck went into the net. Referee George Trudel was on his way to give the scoring on the play, but was told by scorekeeper that fellow-official Bob Reid had called for a face-off to the left of the Wetaskiwin goal, with Reid saying he had blown the whistle previous to the scoring of the goal.

Murray Swanson, blond Wetaskiwin winger, received an unappreciated present from 'Babe' McAvoy during a high-sticking duel — a broken nose. Canadians' Al Mcwhinney (cut on the nose) and goalie Pundick ("bopped" on the head by the puck) were given 'presents' in return by members of the Wetaskiwin crew.

Rival goalies performed brilliantly at times.

BRAZIL SOCCER REFS LIVE DANGEROUSLY

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—Three Britsh soccer referees came home from Brazil yesterday and complained an official needs to carry a knife or a gun to keep off angry partisans of a losing team.

The officials—Gillies Dundas, Arthur Ford and Fred Lowe—said they will recommend to the Football Association that more protection be given British referees who visit Brazil.

Dundas said that after one match a crowd attacked him and he was kicked six times. He escaped in a car.

"After one match," Dundas said, "A Brazilian referee came to me in the dressing room, pulled out a stiletto and said 'You'd better take this. You'll need it.' "

Wonders of Science Make Merry Christmas

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Thousands of grandpas and grandmas who are going to see Christmas trees this year wouldn't even be here except for science.

They are going to know they can look forward to another Christmas, instead of being sure they would not live another year. It's only a few years ago that these grandparents would have known that one in 10 persons of their age was certain to die of pneumonia in January and February. Penicillin changed that.

Grandpa and Grandma, who suffer most of the agonies of arthritis, won't hurt so much this Christmas. They still can't get the new 1949 hormones that miraculously stop pain, but they can look forward to relief—and for the first time.

RATE DECLINES

There are 60,000 American babies who will see Christmas this year who never would have lived long enough to see Santa a few years ago. This year's death rate among the new-born dropped to a new low, and that is part of the saving. The others were cured of infant diseases.

Thousands of mothers who will hold up 1949 babies to see Santa wouldn't have done it in 1948. They would have died in childbirth. Mother deaths in childbirth dropped to a new low in the United States this year. It's about one-quarter better than last year.

This year's death rate in the United States dropped two per cent under last year.

OTHER FIELDS

Science did this, medical science was one reason. Others were better food, more of it due to scientific farming, and the rapid transportation that gets the food to the people who need it.

Take the hateful atomic bomb. The energy that makes it was used this year for thousands of experiments in agriculture, to produce better and more food, with less labor. And for tens of thousands of other good works.

Santa Claus' Chief Helper In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 23. — (BUP)—Making 4,000 little girls happy made Charlie Coe a year-round Santa Claus.

A 30-year-old army veteran, Coe was Santa's big helper in his little workshop at the rear of a downtown store. This year, he repaired 4,000 dolls and the Christmas rush kept his hands working feverishly.

LIKES BUSINESS

Charlie took over the business when his father died two years ago and he hasn't regretted it. He said his doll hospital was the busiest in Canada. In his workshop he brings back to life dolls for little girls living as far away as Winnipeg, at Whitehorse and Dawson in the Yukon.

The doll hospital workshop looked like a torture chamber. Piled around his workbench were boxes of dolls' eyes, legs, arms, heads, wigs and battered bodies.

EYES POKED OUT

"Believe it or not," Charlie said, "it's not the arms and legs that get damaged the most but the eyes."

"Kids seem to delight in poking out the eyes or damaging them in some way," the doll body-builder said.

He recalled the time when a terrified little girl saw him touching up a doll with red paint.

"She ran to the nearest cop screaming "there's a man killing a baby in the window and there's blood all over."

Rome Police Ban Communist Rallies

ROME, Dec. 23 — (AP) — Rome police yesterday banned Communist plans for a rally in the colliseum at the same time the Pope inaugurates the Roman Catholic Holy Year at St. Peter's Basilica Saturday.

The rally was advertised as a demonstration of peasants seeking revision of the land laws.'

Lonely Lighthouse Men Keep Vigil Over Xmas

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 23.—(BUP)—While most of us sit down with friends to a turkey dinner and all the trimmings next Sunday, half a hundred lighthouse keepers and their families will continue to keep watch along the lone coast of British Columbia.

From the U.S. boundary to Alaska, they will be on duty 24 hours a day to keep the beacons shining and warn ships away from the treacherous rocks.

But they will be celebrating Christmas too—not with turkey perhaps—or the rest of the trimmings—but with good and tasty food. They'll take out an hour or so for a steaming meal and Christmas cheer with their families.

Few of the isolated lightkeepers will be able to enjoy turkey, for they get their supplies whenever ships call at their stations. At Langara Island, on the northwest tip of Queen Charlotte Islands, tenders visit the lighthouses about every two months.

That means families have to stock up weeks ahead—and most of them have no refrigeration facilities to keep the fowl until Christmas and New Year rolls around.

A few lighthouse keepers are close enough to settlements to stock up for the Yuletide, but most of them are semi-isolated while they tend the light that keeps the ships safely at sea.

Broken on Wheel of Life, Bums 'Lucky' to Get Apple

By Bert L. Marsh

MONTREAL, Dec. 23. — (BUP) — Henri will get an apple, and maybe an orange, for Christmas. Then he'll be turned out on "skid row" whether it's sunny or snowing a blizzard.

He is typical of some 600 self-admitted bums who each night file two abreast into an outwardly-forbidding and dirty-looking three-storey brick building operated by the city on Champ de Mars street. It is called the "Meurling refuge." Its nightly occupants are listed officially as "refugees."

PERSONAL PRIDE GONE

Henri, like most of the others, is long past the days when pride meant anything. He says he knows he'll never get anywhere and that he's too old even to try. And he doesn't get riled when people call him "a bum."

His Christmas will parallel those of the rest of "skid row's" floating population, a few in their early 20's but most well over 55. He and they spend their waking hours mooching sandwiches, bowls of soup, and—if they can get them—dimes with which to buy glasses of beer or bottles of bay rum.

They get lots of sandwiches, Henri said, from half a dozen organizations scattered throughout Canada's biggest city. Many look fat on it. There are few who have anything organically wrong.

At night, they bed down on bunks between freshly-laundered white sheets, and with their heads on pillows covered with clean white pillowcases. The city welfare department picks up the tab. It works out at an average of 42 cents per man, 365 days a year.

I tagged along with Henri last night as he shuffled away from Montreal's bright lights to the outwardly grim-looking refuge.

Henri joined one of two files that quickly grew from a few men to long lines of destitutes, winding more than two blocks down the narrow street. One file, he explained, was for the "over 45's." Because of their age, they get bottom bunks. The other was for younger men who sleep above them. But it was hard to tell their ages, with their collars turned up and with days' stubble on their unsmiling faces.

Henri, like the others, filed into the building through a side alleyway past an elderly cop who's been on the same job 20 years. There was hardly a word spoken. He headed for a registration desk.

Everyone was in by 7:30 p.m. when the doors closed for the night. Lights went out at 9 o'clock sharp.

This morning Henri was given two more sandwiches—one meat and the other jam—and another cup of coffee.

On Christmas morning the city will throw in an apple or an orange. But apart from that, it will be just another day on skid row.

Sorry Too Late

ST. LOUIS — (UP) — Elmer J. Smith, caught after dodging the draft for six years by traveling from coast to coast and changing his address a dozen timees, told the court, "Judge, I'm sorry." "Sixty days in jail," said the judge.

We Spend Millions Importing Foods

Eggs, Cheese, Meat and Bacon, Fruits and Vegetables Brought In

By Harold Morrison

OTTAWA, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Domestic food surpluses may be piling up. But Canada is buying food from other countries.

Millions of dollars poured out of Canadian pockets during the year to import cheese, meat, bacon, a few eggs and a wide variety of fresh fruits and vegetables.

At the same time, the country was spending further millions building up huge stocks of butter, cheese and other commodities in government warehouses.

And although the surpluses appear to be growing, there is no indication that there will be any undue restrictions against the import of foreign foodstuffs in 1950.

For food, anyway, 1949 was an odd year. Take cheese as an example. During 1949 when Canada was unable to find enough foreign markets, the government purchased 18,000,000 pounds of surplus cheese and spent $5,000,000 of the taxpayers' money in doing so.

Yet in the same year Canadians imported 1,457,550 pounds of Danish and other foreign cheese at a cost of $900,000.

During the year more than $500,000 worth of pork products were imported.

ARGENTINE MEAT

Canada had plenty of beef in storage but that didn't stop her from buying more than $2,000,000 worth of canned beef from the Argentine.

About $95,000 worth of eggs were imported, too, but the experts say most of the eggs were used for hatching purposes.

They all added up to the fact that Canada's total imports of agricultural and animal products totalled almost $300,000,000 during the first ten months this year, compared with $279,000,000 last year.

Trade exports say one reason for the imports when Canada could not sell her own surpluses stemmed from the fact that the Canadian food industry has geared itself to sell to one specific market—the United Kingdom.

Now that the British market appears to be declining, there is the belief among government experts that Canadian industry will do a lot more concentrating on the domestic trade.

Keep the Cook—Don't Kill Him!

By Ken Liddell
Bulletin City Editor

Hotel rules that prevent a fellow staying more than five days in these crowded times are nothing compared to the restrictions at the old inn at Macleod in years gone by.

There were so many things you couldn't do, it's a wonder the guests put up with the restrictions, particularly any who came to the conclusion they had received notice to get out when they and their baggage had been heaved over the fence.

★ ★ ★ ★

Today they are more gentle about it.

They rent the room and leave you sitting in the lobby.

But the fabulous Macleod hotel days were recalled when J. B. Cross, Calgary, Brewers' Association, presented a painting of the old place to A. G. Swinarton, president of the Alberta Hotel Association.

The painting, by Miss Annora Brown, recalled 75th anniversary of Macleod this year, which, in turn, recalled fabulous history of the place which was something of a prairie capitol when a few Mounties set foundation for Alberta's present prosperity.

Harry Taylor was running the hotel down there, then, and a character of his day was he, and so was his hotel.

Kept Good House

Mr. Taylor liked to keep a good house, and one regulation he strictly enforced concerned "quarrelsome or boisterous persons, also those who shoot off without provocation guns or other explosive weapons on the premises, and all boarders who get killed."

Such characters were not allowed to remain in the house.

In case of fire the guests were requested to escape without delay.

★ ★ ★ ★

The bar was open day and night, day drinks were 50 cents; night drinks, $1, and no mixed drinks were served except in case of a death in the family.

Only regularly registered guests were allowed to sleep on the barroom floor.

Guests without baggage were requested to sleep in the vacant lot and board elsewhere until their baggage arrived.

There was to be no kicking about the food and assault of the cook was strictly prohibited.

And you couldn't leave valuables in the safe because the hotel had no safe.

★ ★ ★ ★

Boy! Front Please

And if you wanted to attract attention of a waiter or bellboy, it was suggested you shoot a hole through the door panel. Two shots for water, three for a deck of cards. One shot didn't count.

In view of the fact another regulation prohibited use of firearms, maybe some of the rules were more in fun than anything else in those boisterous times.

But they were to be found in every room of the place.

Which is a big improvement over what they hang on the walls these days.

SQUABBLE SETTLER, Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, has suggested establishment of "courts" to judge disputes among scientists, engineers, military planners and politicians on matters affecting national defence and security. Conant's proposal was made in an article written for the quarterly review, "Foreign Affairs".

Board Honors Junior Nine

BRUDERHEIM, Dec. 23—Eighty four attended the banquet given the Board of Trade in honor of junior ball club, winner of Highway 15 Baseball League.

R. Rippel, league president complimented the boys on their remarkable comeback. R. B. Christie made a plea to sportsmen for moral as well as financial support for hockey boys.

Importance of co-operation was stressed by E. Rosnau and E. Mittelsteadt emphasized the necessity and value of various sports in all towns.

Board of Trade president, A. Strong announced the winner of the baseball club's raffle radio was John Guzan.

Killam Ladies' Bonspiel Jan. 27

KILLAM, Dec. 23—Killam Ladies' Curling Club has set Jan. 27 and [illegible] dates for the annual open bonspiel. Elmer Bruder again will be in charge of draws.

Karon Enghoj and Dorothy Gordon have been appointed to the draw committee and Mrs. Mary S[illegible]en, as second vice-president, will assist the executive.

Club this season has seven rinks, the skips being — Grace Vandervoort, Helen Bruder, Gertrude S[illegible]k, M[illegible] S[illegible], W[illegible] Van H[illegible], Amy Robinson and Doreen Bennett.

Curling Farmers Build Own Two-Sheet Rink

VERMILION, Dec. 23.—Farmers in Buffalo Coulee area now have a curling rink of their own. One hundred and fifty were present, including curlers from Mannville, Wildmere, Claysmore, and Vermilion, for the opening cermony.

The rink built by the farmers themselves, is well conducted and has two playing sheets of standard size, with a cement walk from end to end for convenience of spectators. There is also a spacious waitingroom, well heated, with windows looking on the ice.

Gas engine supplies power for generating electricity for lighting purposes and both sheets are well lighted.

GUESTS PAY TRIBUTE

Guest speakers were G. Webb president of Vermilion club, Len Manz, vice-president of Mannville club; Wm Smith of Wildmere; Carl Heckbert, Vermilion and Dr. D Hasinoff, Mannville.

All paid tribute to the foresight and zeal of the farmers of the district, who had given so much time and energy to provide this important addition to their community life.

Master of ceremonies, Gordon Larsen, who is president of the new club, called on H. R. Parker senior skip present and one of the oldest curlers in the province, to officially open the rink.

Mr. Parker snipped the blue and red ribbons after wishing the Buffalo Coulee members many happy winters enjoying curling in one of the snuggest rinks in Alberta.

Court Delays Decision On Honey Guthrie

TORONTO, Dec. 23—(BUP)—The Ontario Supreme Court today sidestepped the ticklish question of whether a minister who wrote love letters to one of his married parishioners should be barred from the church.

[illegible] had ordered the congregation of York Road Baptist Church, Guelph, Ont., to vote on the issue and to report the results today. But the congregation, about evenly split into supporters and opponents of their lovesick pastor, could not agree on a method of voting.

DECISION DELAYED

As a result, Mr. Justice Keiller McKay of the Supreme Court postponed any decision until the April, 1950, session of the court.

Four of the church's six deacons had obtained an injunction on Dec. 2 prohibiting the Rev. Thomas (Honey) Guthrie from using the church. The injunction would be continued until April, the court ruled.

[illegible] Guthrie moved his pulpit to a lodge hall in Guelph, taking about half of the congregation with him.

ADMITTED LOVE

The battle started Aug. 28 when Guthrie admitted that he had written love letters to Mrs. Robert Stitt, 27. Mrs. Stitt had complained that the pastor had been paying her more visits than was necessary and had suggested she run away with him. One of his letters was signed "Love and kisses, Thomas (Honey) Guthrie," she said.

Guthrie confessed all to his congregation and asked for forgiveness. He admitted that he became infatuated with the housewife several years ago and said he had admired her from the street as she combed her hair in an upstairs bedroom of her home.

Following his public confession, Mrs. Guthrie [illegible]

Britain Faces Water Famine Within the Next 20 Years

By Don Gilbert

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Despite her abundant rainfall, Britain will be faced with a water famine within 20 years unless a way can be found to cut its use or build more reservoirs quickly.

A growing population and wider public liking for modern plumbing are outpacing construction of new storage facilities. Use of water has increased 20 percent in 10 years and already some communities are unable to satisfy all demands.

INCREASE EXPECTED

Industry and agriculture are competing with the domestic user [illegible] engineers estimate demand in [illegible] will be double what it was when the [illegible] began.

The war interrupted expansion of the reservoir system. Now shortages of labor and materials make difficult the launching of a program big enough to ensure adequate [illegible] the current rate of increase in consumption.

The average Briton is using 50 gallons a day. That is modest compared with some western standards. [illegible] use an average of 110 gallons a day in their homes.

A committee of experts designated by the [illegible] to look into the problem found elimination of waste the most [illegible] gallons per head [illegible]

The experts rejected metering of water as too expensive. Instead they recommended an intensive public relations campaign to win the co-operation of consumers. It urged more research into means of detecting underground wastage and suggested industry re-use where ever possible.

[illegible] running of water into the drain until it comes hot, and continued use of automatic flushing systems in factories and offices during Sundays and holidays.

MODERNIZATION

The experts found a lot of British homes still getting along with antiquated plumbing. The report said:

"More houses have been fitted with baths and sinks; privies have been replaced by water closets; and the domestic hot water system is being rapidly popularized.

"Despite the progress which has been made during the past 30 or 40 years there remains in industrial towns a surprisingly high percentage of houses possessing limited facilities. Many still have no more than a cold water tap and water closet."

Health Insurance Fight Seen in U.S.

May Be Top Political Question In Next Year's Congress Election

By George Kitchen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Compulsory health insurance is looming as the No. 1 political question for the United States voter in the 1950 congressional elections.

The Truman administration has been quietly preparing the ground for health-insurance legislation in the congressional session opening this January, although even its most ardent supporters concede it will be defeated.

DOCTORS' OPPOSITION

Observers say the government's aim is to make health insurance the major issue in next November's elections, in which the full house of representatives and one-third of the senate will go before the voters. With a Democratic victory, they say, the health insurance bill should win adoption in 1951.

The powerful American Medical Association already has launched its fight against what it calls "socialized" medicine.

Meeting here recently in annual session, the association announced its intention to draw contributions of $25 from each of its more than 100,000 physician-members to build a $2,500,000 "war chest" to campaign against the legislation.

Under the government's plans, an ailing American would call his personal physician, just as he does now. The doctor would be free to use X-ray and any kind of laboratory tests or to call in specialists. The cost would be paid out of the insurance fund.

For those who are employed, the employers would pay into the fund an amount equal to 1½ per cent of the salary paid. Another 1½ per cent would be taken from the employe's pay cheque. The deduction would then be taken only from earnings up to $4,800 a year. The maximum deduction would be $1.40 a week.

COVER ALL CALLS

Self-employed persons would work out their premiums on the basis of their income.

The payments would cover house and office calls by the doctor, treatment by specialists, hospital and nursing care for at least 60 days, eye glasses, hearing aids, cost of expensive medicines, X-ray, laboratory tests and dental services for the contributor and his family.

The day-to-day administration of the program would be in the hands of local doctors and laymen.

Scarlet Fever Again Forces School Close

NOBLEFORD, Dec. 23—(CP)—A second outbreak of scarlet fever in this district has again forced closing of the Nobleford Central School this time until Jan. 3.

The school also was closed in the last week of November due to an outbreak of the fever.

Calf Causes Worry About Loose Bull

CALGARY, Dec. 23 — (CP) — Police were sent on a wild bull chase yesterday when reports of a bull on the loose sent them scouring East Calgary.

They didn't find the bull, but A. W. Byer, Morrin, explained to police that what was probably seen was a four-month-old calf which got out of his truck and wandered off.

Tito Demands Hungary Pay Its War Debt

BELGRADE, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Yugoslavia is putting pressure on Hungary to [illegible] of its $70,000,000 [illegible] to this country, Information Minister Dedijer revealed today.

In an effort to collect the past due bill, Marshal Tito's government has invoked a clause in the Second World War peace treaty and called on the neighboring Communist country to name a representative to meet with one from Yugoslavia on the matter.

Hungary stopped her payments to Yugoslavia last year, shortly after the Cominform denounced the Tito regime. Dedijer said Hungary thus far had paid "not much" of the $70,000,000 agreed to under the peace treaty as war reparations.

Dedijer said Yugoslavia took the present step to collect the debt only after all attempts at a direct settlement had failed.

SET TIME LIMIT

The peace treaty provides the procedure of the present step in the event a dispute between two countries arose and direct negotiations collapsed. The two representatives would appoint a third member from a neutral country who would serve as a referee.

Yugoslavia has given Hungary until January 15 to name her representative.

"If this fails," Dedijer said, "we will take a further step."

He declined to reveal just what the next step would be, but presumably it would be an appeal to the United Nations.

Yugoslavia refused to celebrate Prime Minister Stalin's 70th birthday yesterday because it would have been "sheer hypocrisy," Dedijer told a press conference.

on the TOWN...

By Jack DeLong

Dear Santa:

I really should have written you earlier because by the time you get this note you will be all set to take off from the north pole in your sled.

The things I'm asking you to bring to Edmonton this year are perhaps not exactly what you get the most orders for but see what you can do about them anyway, Santa dear.

For instance, Santa, could you put a note in the stockings of all people who drive cars asking them please to be extra careful at Christmas time. Some kids I know cried all day last Christmas because their dad and mum were hurt awful bad in a car smash.

And Santa would you mind leaving little notes for all Edmonton landlords asking them to go easy on the rent boost for ordinary working folk now that rent control will soon be off.

I know you won't forget sick people in hospitals, especially our brave war veterans. And you might remind everyone else to think oftener of sick folk all through the year.

And Santa, maybe Edmonton people would go to the back of the bus during rush hours if you were to ask them. They sure won't do it for anyone else.

Don't forget to bring plenty of pennies because they've stuck parking meters all over Edmonton since you were here last. We'd hate to see you get a ticket for overparking.

And don't on your life try to drive south on 103 or 104 streets Santa. These streets are all dug up for water mains or something just the same as they are every Christmas time.

Please try to get it across to people to smile oftener every day of the year.

Each little smile is a great big gift for someone. (Be sure and get this across to my boss.)

Your Friend,
Jack DeLong

P.S. Please don't bring me a tie like you brought last year.

About People and Christmas

Quite a few Canadians of Ukrainian and Polish origin are lucky. They can celebrate Christmas twice. Christmas for many of the peoples in the Slav countries is two weeks after Dec. 25, according to the Julian calendar. A few years ago this later Christmas was the big day for Canadians of Slav origin but now I am informed, practically all of these people make Dec. 25 the main holiday.

In China, Christmas doesn't get much of a play, I am told by Canton-born Chinese Cafeman Fawn. He says only in Chinese cities with large European populations is Christmas observed to any extent. But at the New Year the Chinese really go to town. Fawn tells me everything shuts down for 10 days. Gifts are exchanged and there is general rejoicing.

I'll bet they have fun too, but do you think we could stand 10 days of Christmas whoopee in Edmonton?

* * * *

Elegant Elsie is smart, at times, as well as beautiful. She came up with this philosophic utterance today: "A bigamist is a guy who doesn't know when he's had enough."

Then Elsie went romantic, a mood that suits her well. Twittered Elsie: "A ring on the finger is worth two on the on the phone."

Mrs. Violet Frigon of 10513 - 124 street has no worries about baking a Christmas cake. Mrs. Frigon is the winner of a 19-pound cake, equipped with candles and holly, a Christmas prize from Ogilvie Flour Mills Ltd. Prize went to Edmonton mother with the most children who entered contest. There are 17 younger Frigons and there's one pound of cake for everyone in the family. Doug McQueen of the flour mill firm came in with this announcement.

Lawyer Wally Beaumont is a radio ham. The other night he gave two Edmontonians a [illegible] Christmas present via his amateur station. Wally invited Mrs. Keith Dudman of 10639 - 121 street to chat with her brother, John Mosey in a Vancouver hospital.

Christmas cards in faraway countries where they never have snow, sort of startle Edmonton folk. Gordon McClary who is international director of Y's Men's Clubs in Edmonton, received a couple yesterday that didn't look much like Christmas cards. One from Manila, Phillipines, portrayed a yoke of oxen and a plow. Card from Honolulu was more exciting but just as "un-Christmassy." It was of a native dancing girl wearing a sarong with a basket of fruit on her head.

Pioneer resident Arthur Ormsby was one of the first official weathermen in Edmonton. He remembers taking temperature readings for Ottawa in 1896. The late Alex Taylor was boss of this early meteorological bureau, consisting of two thermometers hung on the porch of the Taylor house.

25 Lashes For Present Bitter Christmas Memory

By Pat McVean
Bulletin Staff Writer

For Birute and Edward and Mike and a hundred of their friends, Christmas can never quite be complete.

Because half the joy of Christmas is remembering past Christmas joys—and for Birute and Edwaard and Mike there are no such memories.

You could have noticed that last night as the young Europeans laughed and danced and sang at the Sacred Hearth church hall Christmas party for displaced persons.

BLOT OUT OLD

Birute and Edward and Mike were only three of the happy crowd seeking to blot out bitter memories of other Christmases with the traditions of Christmas in a new land.

Edward Bonas said he liked the brightness of the Christmas tree at the hall, its gaily colored lights and angel's hair.

There had been a Christmas tree at the German concentration camp where he was imprisoned for nearly four years during the war. The Germans decked it brightly, and tied gifts to its branches, and put it where he and the other Polish prisoners could see it.

On Christmas day they called each prisoner to stand beneath the tree and receive 25 lashes.

FLED LITHUANIA

Birute Smitaite likes the Christmas tradition of Santa Claus arriving by way of the chimney.

Only 22 now, she was little more than a child when she fled from her Lithuanian home before the advancing enemy. Today, both home and country are lost to her.

For Mike Pawlessa, Christmas in Canada is "nicer every year". This is his third.

In an Austrian labor camp, he learned only the dates of the four Christmases there.

"We knew what day it was—that was all."

But the displaced persons, several hundred of them, who attended last night's party by the Catholic Women's League, can begin a collection of Christmas memories now.

They can recall the delight of seeing mounds of candies and oranges and cakes and sandwiches. The pride of standing up and singing "Canada—glorious and free" without stumbling over the words in the way of hesitating Canadian-born audiences. The Christmas tree that wasn't a symbol of a captor's cruelty, and the satisfaction of hurdling the strange new pronunciation of "sweet personality, full of rascality, that's Peggy O'Neill."

As Birute said, they can remember this Christmas season with joy for "Canada is to all people very good."

Manslaughter Trial Ordered

Norman Gowing, of Morinville, was committed yesterday to supreme court for trial on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the traffic death of Arthur Farrow, of Edmonton.

Presented at the hearing was the finding of a coroner's jury last week that excessive consumption of liquor by the accused contributed to the fatal collision, Dec. 7 on the Morinville — St. Albert highway.

SIX DAYS FREE PARKING OUT OF 10

Edmonton city police force will make a present to city motorists of six whole days free parking over the holidays.

Drivers will not be required to pay the "curbside bandits" on December 25-26-27 and January 1-2-3, says Chief Constable Reg Jennings.

Police generosity stems from the fact that Christmas and New Year's days are Sundays and the two days following each are civic holidays, the chief constable explained.

United Nations Appeal At $900

Nearly $900 in contributions to the United Nations Appeal for Children fund has been recorded in the past two weeks, Frank W Wootton, campaign chairman for Edmonton said today.

The fund, distributed on contract to applicant nations, is administered through the United Nations International Children's Emergency committee.

Mr. Wootton, principal of Mill Creek School and treasurer of the Edmonton branch United Nations Association, said in many instances there were organizations and individuals not yet reached by circulars. Persons wishing to make contributions were invited to mail them to P.O. Box 343, Edmonton.

Operating Taxis Get New Licences

Business Applicants Are Refused Permission

City council's bylaws committee last night authorized 10 new taxi licences—but not to the persons who asked for them.

Committee decided the licences should go to nine companies already operating, ignoring two young veterans and dozens more applicants who had been seeking for months to get into business.

Aldermen Ed Clark and Rupert Clare fought a losing battle on behalf of the new applicants, maintaining to the last vote that the city should not bar anyone as long as they meet all rules and regulations governing taxi operation.

Committee, after passing judgment on three different proposals, adopted the report presented by two of the three commissioners, Mayor Parsons and Commissioner John Hodgson. It recommended an increase from 182 to 192 in total taxi licences, allocation to nine firms now in business and certain changes in licencing regulations.

Commissioner D. B. Menzies said he did not sign the report because he did not agree with [illegible] the number of licences, although he concurred in remainder of the report.

Allocation of the 10 new licences will be as follows, if council adopts committee's proposal: two to Yellow Cabs, and one each to West End Taxi, Avenue Taxi, Veteran Taxi, Acme Cabs Ltd., Jack Hays, Boulevard Taxi, Black and White Cabs, and Davies Taxi.

THREE-CAR MINIMUM

The committee recommended to council that when any licencee wants to quit business, he must turn back his licences for cancellation. When new licences are issued, city commissioners should first approve, and licences will not be issued to anyone without at least three cars, and who is ready to take out at least three licences.

The fee per cab will be boosted to $25 from its present $10 if committee's recommendation is accepted.

Office space of a projected new cab operator must be suitable to the licence inspector and waiting-room accommodation must be provided for patrons.

"We do not think it necessary at present to establish a taxicab board in this city," said the two commissioners' report and committee endorsed that stand.

67 UNTRIED PETITIONERS

Ald. Clare and Ald. Clark, repeatedly asked why commissioners disregarded applications from 25 aspiring operators, which numebr Commissioner Hodgson said had grown to 67. Mayor Sid Parsons replied that experience with new operators had not been good.

"Many applicants got licences and soon sold out, either because they couldn't make a go of it, or because they could sell out at a profit. That shows they are not so much interested in getting a licence for operating purposes," he said.

Commissioner Hodgson said that operators who had built up their business, and didn't sell out, should have any additional licences issued.

Mr. Hodgson said that among the 67 new applicants are some seeking licences for four, five, and even eight taxis.

TWO VOTES GO 3-2

Ald. Armour Ford said the committee was acting on a wrong basis, that the number of licences should not be extended until it is proved a definite public need exists for more taxis.

But when the final vote came on Ald. Clare's motion to table the commissioners' report until commissioners could bring in a complete bylaw revision, the vote was 2-3, with only Ald. Clare and Clark supporting it.

Ald. Fred Mitchell's motion that commissioners' report be adopted and that a further eight licences be authorized to go to some of the new applicants, also was defeated.

CHRISTMAS FUND UP

Total donated to Salvation Army kettle fund by Wednesday night was $2,[illegible].

This is almost $300 more than for the same period a year ago.

On Wednesday $231.95 was collected, mostly from Christmas kettles.

Contributions are still coming in by mail.

Tree Cutting Costs $40 Fine

Terry Tangen, of 10025 Jasper avenue, paid $40 in police court yesterday when he pleaded guilty to cutting Christmas trees near Whitemud, December 14.

Tangen said he thought it was legal to cut trees outside the city limits.

Self-Taught 'Lawyer' To Stand Drug Trial

A "barracks-room lawyer" conducted a spirited fight in his own defence in police court yesterday against a charge of illegal possession of narcotics but was ordered to stand trial in supreme court.

John S. Haddon, no fixed address, strongly insisted that it was the police, rather than himself, who were guilty of misdeeds in the case.

TALENTED PRISONER

The accused criticized the provincial analyst, Dr. J. A. Kelso for his methods used in detecting traces of heroin in articles police said were found in the accused's possession.

Looking more like a professional man than a prisoner in his grey pin-stripe suit and mustache, the accused asked the provincial analyst why he had not brought to court a sample of the narcotic he had obtained in his investigation.

Dr. Kelso replied that through his tests he had obtained sufficient heroin to identify it. "That's all I'm asked to do."

The self-appointed chemist suggested the provincial analyst should have made use of other methods in his examination.

"Isn't it usual to make use of the law of definite proportions in a case such as this, doctor?" asked the accused.

At another point he asked why the analyst had not used the spectroscopic method of identification.

Dr. Kelso replied he had used standard methods of identification and that the methods suggested by the accused would be of no value in the case.

SELF TAUGHT

The accused is believed to be a high school graduate who has studied up on his chemistry and law. He has become a lay expert in some aspects of both subjects.

Haddon was arrested Dec. 1, by city detectives Stan Hooper and R. [illegible]. On his person were found wires used by addicts to clean hypodermic needles, and two pieces of cotton batten court was told. Traces of heroin were found on the wires and on the cotton batten, Dr. Kelso testified.

The accused objected because he had not been allowed to accompany the detectives to the university to witness the [illegible]

Pre-Holiday Check Of Chores in Order

By Bea Thrifty

Poor ol' flustered Santa Claus is breathing down our very necks as that bountiful, beautiful, busy day approaches.

Tomorrow is Christmas Eve and I still have positively a million things to do. There are gifts to be wrapped and delivered, a few more mince tarts to bake (they disappeared like snowdrops on a radiator), last bits of tinsel to add to the tree, the turkey to prepare, linen to check, silver and china to count.

I'm always so glad at this time of year that I keep my silver in a cloth to keep it from tarnishing. This means silver-polishing and cleaning is off my list of "things-to-do".

• • •

Before I ramble on too much about my better-late-than-never chores I must let you in on a few gems.

• • •

I was happy as the proverbial clam when I spotted lovely silvered cedar branches, leaves and sprays of twigs selling at almost reasonable rates.

They add to the festive decorations tremendously and substitute beautifully for fresh cut flowers.

I bought an adequate spray for [illegible]. Spray divided nicely to fill one mantel vase, finish a centrepiece and decorate the Christmas candle holders.

• • •

Fresh flowers are selling in the chrysanthemum way, of thinking for $1 per bunch. Others, still in the chrysanthemum family sell at prices amounting to $ per bunch . . . all depending on where you buy them . . . and how fussy you are about shape, coloring 'n such.

• • •

With family and friends dropping in [illegible] arrayed up with more than the [illegible]

•

[illegible] there isn't too much time for [illegible] at this stage of the game . . . but do remember [illegible] "company" [illegible]

Ten minutes will be time enough [illegible] for the things the closet has collected [illegible] dust [illegible] line up the rubbers and check to be sure there's plenty of coathangers.

• • •

Incidently for another year . . . there is a fine, fancy little man who will silver your Christmas tree for an average cost of $2 to $3.

For them as likes silver trees instead of the traditional green this is a sparkling good idea. Little man takes painstaking care with same silvering job and result is mighty purty indeed ma'am.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Prospective Mother Should Study Emotions

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

The moment a young wife knows that she is to have a baby she begins to have feelings and to express attitudes toward this new experience in life.

Even if she is happy—and we hope she is—she may allow herself to harbor emotions toward the event which will work to the detriment of her future relationship with her baby.

One of her emotions may be a latent, or even active resentment against the frustrations in her social life. She may not feel well enough to go everywhere as she did before and she looks forward to the time when she and her husband will be prevented from acting freely and doing as they please, because of the baby.

She may feel some resentment, probably unexpressed, against her husband. "Oh, you men," she may say, "you have it so easy. The women have to carry the babies and bear them and then take care of them. I wish I were a man."

If she harbors such a resentment it will be her inclination to play up any discomforts she may be suffering. If she has to go through this, she may as well enjoy all the coddling and cherishing her family and husband can give her, so she figures. For the time she wants to feel like a child again, since heavy responsibilities are rushing toward her.

It is possible for any woman to have some of these emotions, though she may not want to analyze them to herself. But she should know that if she has, she will tend to make the baby pay for them. Unconsciously, she will expect that baby to be beautiful; to be smart, to repay her for her discomforts, her suffering, her sacrifice of her youth and good times.

Over and above the physical care a young prospective mother gives herself there must be some consideration and understanding of these attitudes and emotions. If she is grownup she will welcome responsibility and be eager to fulfill it. If she is still immature she will want someone to pay for her experiences and shield her from responsibility; and such attitudes cannot possibly develop the right and wholesome relationship that should exist between a mother and her child.

Our leaflet No. 1 "The Prospective Mother," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Tobe on Fashion—

Beach Black—The Smart New Resort Fashion

Going back to resort fashions, the smartest color for beach and playclothes is black. I first saw "Beach Black" last summer in Italy at Capri, one of the smart resorts in Europe today. It was full of the exciting people who make fashion news—the international smart set, famous actresses and movie stars.

The really chic women all were black on the dazzling beaches—slim black corduroy slacks, black bathing suits, black sweaters, black pique skirts, black linen sun dresses —sometimes spiked with colored jersey stoles but more often unrelieved except by fabulous jewelry.

Our American designers have made stunning black resort clothes and I'm sure "Beach Black" will be as smart in Florida and California as it was in Capri.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Most Women Happiest Between 30 and 43

A correspondent asks: What is the best period of a woman's life?

That naturally depends upon circumstances and upon the temperament and character of a woman. Sometimes Fate showers all of its blessings on the early part of a woman's life. Sometimes it waits until she is old before handing her her quota of sugar plums.

Sometimes a young girl quaffs down the cup of joy in a single draft, and often and often a woman never knows happiness until years of experience and suffering have given her a philosophhy of life to live by, and taught her how to make the best of things.

It is generally believed that girlhood is the happiest time of a woman's life. It is presupposed that every girl is beautiful and carefree, and that life for her is a merry-go-round filled with parties and pretty frocks and good times.

Of course, there is an occasional lucky maiden whose Fairy Godmother does dump all of the good gifts into her cradle. But, alas, the great majority of girls have no Fairy Godmother, or else the stingy old jade holds out on them, and bestows upon them neither a rich father nor naturally wavy hair nor does she endow them with any allure for men.

So to a vast number of women girlhood is not a time of joy and song and dancing feet. It is a period of frustrated hopes and bitter mortifications and anxiety and anxious striving and work and worry.

There are girls who sit at home with their parents night after night, eating out their hearts out in bitter despair because they never have a date and lack that intangible something that makes boys single them out for attention.

And almost every girl goes to a party with her heart fainting within her and her feet turned to ice, wondering if she will be cut in upon, or if her partner will be stuck and have to drag her around the entire evening.

I would not say that girlhood is the happiest time of the average woman's life, and assuredly age, the other extreme, is not, although to many women it is a time of great placid enjoyment.

But this is a negative happiness in which one has no disappointments because one has no hopes; in which one is calm and peaceful because one is so near the end of everything that nothing matters.

So far as it can be settled chronologically, I should say that the happiest time of life to most women is the period between 30 and 42 or 43. The unhappiest between 43 and 50. And the second happiest from 50 odd to 70.

Xmas Party Time Keeps Santa Busy

Holiday spirit prevails as Christmas parties continue throughout the city.

Yesterday Canadian Vocational Training students gathered around a gaily decorated tree in the commercial classroom. Santa Claus arrived in time to distribute parcels to everyone present.

Yuletide goodies added the party perfection touch.

Highlands Community League play school director Miss Jean Smith assisted her young charges at a Merry Christmastime party held at the community hall yesterday. Children have spent the past weeks making decorations for the party.

Santa Claus was guest of honor.

Income Tax Staffers Spread Joy

Buffet supper, program and dancing topped the annual Christmas party agenda for Edmonton District Income Tax Staff Association last night.

More than 300 staff members partied at the Memorial hall from 6:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Master of ceremonies was Miles Tompkins.

Presentation was made to Mrs. Daisy Davies by Gordon Northfield, director of income tax here. Mrs. Davies will leave shortly for the branch at Dawson City in the Yukon.

Taking part in the program were staffers Carrie Zurch, Doug Braun, Donald Rhyason, Allison Steeves, Peggy Lang and Florence Panyik.

Sorority Sisters Play Santa

Beta Sigma Phi members have been busy planning Christmas treats for children at the Royal Alexandra Hospital.

The sorority sisters of Beta chapter are affiliated with the Women's Aid of the hospital. Mrs. J. A. Clarke, sorority chapter president and Mrs. John Oliver, WA president, visited the wards with gifts for December 25 opening.

Mrs. Roy Lambertson will head a party of members Christmas morning who will personally deliver the gifts. Others will be Mrs. T. Blaine, Mrs. D. Carter, Mrs. J. C. Sheremata.

Mrs. George Drew Named By Editors 'Woman of the Year'

MONTREAL, Dec. 23 — (BUP) — A representative group of Canadian newspaper editors, asked for their nominations for the woman-of-the-year in Canada in 1949, offered a widely varied selection of names.

They voted for Senator Cairine Wilson, for violinist Donna Gresco, for figure skater Barbara Ann Scott and for Margaret Munn, Miss Canada of 1949 on the beauty front. But for every vote for another woman there were two for Mrs. George Drew.

Their selection showed they had not forgotten the huckstering election days of June, nor the woman who went on the political warpath with her husband, stomping from one end of the nation to the other and speaking at literally scores of rallies.

Women Organize Chamber Musicale

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 21.—(CP)—A Sydney woman has formed a string orchestra for the purpose of bringing high quality chamber music to Australian audiences.

She is Phyllis McDonald, a professor at the Sydney Conservatorium and recognized as one of the Dominion's finest chamber music artists.

LONG, COLD WAY from swimming pools of California, Margaret Hutton enjoys her first glimpse in long time of white Christmas. Champion ornamental swimmer with Aqua Parade, she is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. A. Potter in Edmonton.

Trick Swimming Champ Visits Sister in City

By Frances Geddes

North American trick swimming champion, Margaret Hutton has come a long way from the girl who used to be afraid of the water.

Miss Hutton, one of the stars of Buster Crabbe's Aqua Parade is in Edmonton visiting her sister, Mrs. G. A. Potter.

Born and educated in Toronto, Miss Hutton held national swimming records at 16 but not before she had nearly drowned twice.

Now she loves the water and finds her work "thrilling."

She says she's the only one in the country who can do the water tricks which bring her so much applause. "They look simple but no one else can do them."

FISHY TRICKS

She learned a lot of her art from watching fish. She swims without moving her feet. "If fish can do it, why can't I?" she reasoned.

"Just before I came here, I was lobster diving in broiling temperatures," she says. But she adds that it's wonderful to see snow at Christmas again.

Xmas W Bride-Elect Is Entertained

Home of Mrs. Alec H. Adams was decorated with cedar boughs and red and white chrysanthemums Wednesday afternoon and evening, when she received 65 guests in honor of her daughter, Doreen.

Miss Adams will be married to John Nicholls at Christ Church Tuesday.

For the occasion, Mrs. Adams chose a black afternoon model complemented by a corsage of gold baby chrysanthemums. Her daughter was in a blue two-piece dress and wore a corsage of pink baby chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Keith Nicholls, sister-in-law of the bridegroom-elect, received wearing a rose wool jersey dress and corsage of deep rose baby [illegible].

Taupe afternoon dress was chosen by Miss Audrey Adams, sister of the bride-elect. Her corsage was of [illegible].

The tea table, set with an ecru lace cloth, was centred with a bouquet of baby white chrysanthemums and red carnations.

Scarlet tapers in silver candelabra completed [illegible].

Mrs. H. J. Adam and Mrs. F. S. Rowsell, aunt of the bride, presided at the tea urns during the afternoon while Mrs. Keith Nicholls and Miss Gladys Rowsell poured in the evening.

Those assisting in serving were Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Rosaie Taylor, Mrs. I. D. Moore, Mrs. J. S. Thompson, Mrs. Ian [illegible], Miss Shirley McKenzie, Miss Anne Cairns, Miss Joan [illegible].

Gifts and guest book were looked after by Mrs. A. T. Gray, Miss Audrey Adams and Miss Margaret Marshall.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, with a bundle of clothes in her paws, stood in Uncle Wiggily's garage and looked at the washing machine in the corner. There was a look of surprise on the funny face of the muskrat lady housekeeper

Uncle Wiggily, who had accidentally been shut up in the washing machine, could look out through a little opening where the cover did not fit tight. He saw Nurse Jane starting to creep out of the garage

"Don't go, Nurse Jane! Don't be afraid. Lift the cover and let me out, please!"

"Oh, my goodness! This is the most magical thing I ever heard of!" squeaked Nurse Jane. "It's more marvelous than the box of Mr. Doodle's dog. I've heard of washing machines that played music when they were jiggling the clothes, but this is the first time I ever heard a washing machine talk! I'm going to get out of here before it grabs me!"

"Don't go, Nurse Jane! Please let me out!" called the voice from the machine

"Who—who—who are you?" asked Nurse Jane, talking the least little bit like an owl. "Who are you?"

"I'm Uncle Wiggily! Listen, Nurse Jane! This is a new washing machine that Santa Claus left here so I can surprise my wife with it tomorrow morning. That's Christmas, you know."

"Ye-ye-yes, I know," said Nurse Jane, her teeth chattering just a little. "But if you are Uncle Wiggily, how did you get in the Christmas washing machine?"

"I was looking at it when suddenly I fell in, the cover slammed down and I can't raise it. Please lift the cover, Nurse Jane and let me out."

By this time Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy knew it was Uncle Wiggily's voice. She raised the cover of the machine and the rabbit gentleman hopped out.

"It would have been funny if I had to spend Christmas shut up in a washing machine," laughed Mr. Longears. "Now please don't say anything to Mrs. Longears about this. I want her to have a Christmas surprise."

I'll tell you tomorrow about the further adventures of Uncle Wiggily and the washing machine if the sugar bowl doesn't get mean and try to take the sweet icing off the Christmas cake.

THE Young Lions

By Irwin Shaw

Noah Ackerman, one of the three "Young Lions" whose World War II adventures are followed in this book is about to meet a girl important in his life. The other two "Young Lions" are Christian Diestl, now stationed with the Nazi army in defeated France and Michael Whitacre who is about to divorce his actress wife Laura after meeting Margaret Freemantle, an American girl who also knew Diestl slightly as a ski instructor in the Tyrol. Now go on with the story—

CHAPTER FOUR

Noah Ackerman was nervous. This was the first party he had ever given, and he tried to remember what parties looked like in the movies and parties he had read about in books and magazines.

He and Roger Cannon shared a room near Riverside Drive, not far from Columbia University in New York City. It was a large room, and it had a fireplace, although you couldn't light a fire there, and from the bathroom window, by leaning out only a little, you could see the Hudson River.

After his father's death, Noah had drifted back across the country. He had always wanted to see New York. There was nothing to [illegible] him in any other place on the face of the earth, and he had been able to find a job in the city two days after he landed there. Then he had met Roger in the Public Library on Fifth Avenue.

"I've got a big room," Roger had said. "Two couches. If you don't mind my playing the piano every once in a while in the middle of the night."

Gratefully, still astonished that there was anyone in this crowded, busy city who could find profit, of any kind whatsoever, in his friendship, Noah had moved into the large, run-down room near the river.

Noah Greets First Guests

Noah smiled as he heard the key in the door because now he would not have to face the ordeal of greeting the first guests by himself. The door opened and Roger came in. Roger had a girl with him, and Noah took her coat and hung it up without accident, not tripping over anything or wrenching the girl's arm.

The girl had on a plum-colored dress with a full skirt that caught the lamplight. She was standing very serious and at home, with her back to the room, in front of the fireplace. She had pretty, rather heavy legs and a narrow, graceful waist. Her hair was pulled to the back in a severe feminine knot, like a pretty schoolteacher in the movies.

She had a dark, pointed face and grave eyes. Somehow, as he looked at her, Noah felt that he had been hit, physically, by something solid and numbing. He had never felt anything like this before. He felt guilty and feverish and [illegible].

Her name, Noah discovered later, was Hope Plowman, and she had come down from a small town in Vermont two years before. She lived in Brooklyn now with an aunt. She had a direct serious way of talking and she didn't wear any [illegible] and she worked as a secretary to a man who [illegible] printing machinery in a small factory near Canal Street.

Noah Stares Blankly, Wearily

No, he thought, as he greeted the new guests and helped with the drinks, no. I am not going to let this happen. Most of all, she was Roger's girl, and even if any girl would desert that handsome superior man for an awkward creature like himself, it was [illegible] that he, Noah, could repay the generous acts of friendship even by the hidden duplicity of [illegible] desire.

Noah stared blankly and wearily at the girl. [illegible] he hated her. At eight that evening he had been a happy man, secure and hopeful, with friend and home and job, with the past clean behind him, the future shining ahead. At nine he was a [illegible] fugitive in an endless swamp, with the dogs baying at him, and a roster of crimes dark against his name on the books of the country.

"Where are you going?" she asked.

"We . . . We . . ." he stuttered, hating himself for the ineptness of his [illegible]. "We need some more soda, and I'm going out to get it."

"I'll go with you," she said.

• • •

The room was dark and he could hear Roger's measured sleeping breath. Noah undressed swiftly and silently and slid into bed across the room from his friend. He lay there staring at the ceiling, caught in alternate waves of pleasure and agony as he thought first of the girl and the kiss at the gate, and then of Roger and what he would say in the morning.

He was dozing off to sleep when he heard his name.

"Noah!"

He opened his eyes. "Hello, Roger," he said.

"You all right?"

"Yes."

Silence.

"Take her home?"

"Yes."

Silence in the dark room.

"We went out to get some sandwiches," Roger said. "You must have missed us."

"Yes."

Silence again.

"Roger . . ."

"Yes?"

Something To Explain

"I feel I have to explain. I didn't mean to . . . Honest. I started out by myself and then . . . I don't quite remember . . . Roger, are you awake?"

"Yes."

"Roger, she told me [illegible] . . ."

"She told me she wasn't your girl."

"Did she?"

"She said she wasn't anybody's girl. But if she is your girl. Or if you want her to be your girl . . . I . . . I'll never see her again. I swear, Roger. Are you awake?"

"Yes. She's not my girl. I won't deny, from time to time the thought's crossed my mind, but who the hell could make that trip to Brooklyn three times a week?"

Noah wiped the sweat off his forehead in the dark. "Roger," he said.

"Go the hell to sleep." Then the chuckle across the shared dark room. Then silence again.

• • •

In the next two months Noah and Hope wrote each other forty-two letters. They worked near each other and met every day for lunch and almost every night for dinner, and they slipped away from their jobs on sunny afternoons to walk along the docks and watch the ships passing in and out of the harbor. Noah made the long, shuttling trip back and forth to Brooklyn thirty-seven times in the two months, but their real life was carried through the United States mails.

Sitting next to her, in no matter how dark and private a place, he could only manage to say, "You're so pretty," or "I love the way you smile," or "Will you go to the movies with me on Sunday night?" But with the heady freedom of blank paper, and through the impersonal agency of the letter-carrier, he could write. "Your beauty is with me day and night. When I look out in the morning at the sky, it is clearer because I know it is covering you, too; when I look up the river at the bridge, I believe it is a stronger bridge because you have once walked across it with me; when I look at my own face in the mirror, it seems to me it is a better face, because you have kissed it the night before."

Hope Displays Dry Severity

And Hope, who had a dry, New England severity in her makeup that prevented her from offering any but the most guarded and reticent expressions of love in person, would write . . . "You have just left the house and I think of you walking down the empty street and waiting in the spring darkness for the trolley car, and riding in the train to your home. I will stay up with you tonight while you make your journey through the city. Darling, as you travel, I sit here in the sleeping house, with the lamp on, and think of all the things I believe about you. I believe that you are good and strong and just, and I believe that I love you. I believe that your eyes are beautiful and your mouth sad and your hands supple and lovely . . ."

And then when they were together, they would stare at each other, the glory of the written word trembling between them, and say, "I got two tickets for a show. If you're not doing anything tonight, want to go."

★ ★ ★

Hope lit the candles and they sat gravely across from each other, eating hungrily. They hardly spoke while they ate, just polite requests for the salt and the milk pitcher. They folded their napkins and stood up on opposite sides of the table.

"We don't need the candles," Hope said. "Will you please blow out the one on your side?"

"Certainly," Noah said. He leaned over the small glass chimney that covered the candle and Hope bent over the one on her side of the table. Their hands touched as they blew.

Then it was all right. They sat side by side, in the swing, looking up at the darkening sky with the summer stars beginning to bloom above them one by one through the single tree. Far off the trolley, far off the trucks, far off the aunt, the uncle and the two children of the house, far off the newsboys crying beyond the garage, far off the world as they sat there in the walled garden in the evening.

Hope said, "No, we shouldn't" and "I'm afraid, afraid . . ." and "Darling, darling" and Noah was shy and triumphant and dazzled and humble.

Roger disappeared into the Army one day. He wouldn't let Noah go down to the recruiting station with him, and he left him all his belongings, all the furniture, all the books, and even all his clothes, although they were much too large for Noah.

Hope, with a private place that was so securely their own, was unexpectedly wanton. In the warm familiar darkness of the city summer the cold hills of her Vermont puritanism vanished in riotous smoke, and they matched hunger for hunger, claim for claim on the other's flesh. In the dizzying ebb and flow of love, in the shabby room which had become the dearest and most profound secret of their lives, the noise of the streets below, the shouting on the corners, the calls in the Senate, the gunfire on other continents, [illegible] to a remote murmur of background music, drums and bugles in the camp of another army far away in another war.

Industrials Hit Three-Year Peak

TORONTO, Dec. 23—(CP)—Industrials climbed upwards for the second successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Gains were generally held to fractions and scattered over a handful of market leaders. Volume was 533,000 shares.

Activity slowed considerably in the short pre-holiday session as traders prepared for a long holiday week-end. The market closed at 12:30 p.m.

Papers, utilities and foods were higher in industrials as the group continued climbing. Average price level of industrials is at the highest point in more than three years.

A block of 100 shares of Tuckett Tobacco pfd changed hands at $174, up $14 from the last sale some time ago.

Base metals' gains doubled losses. Golden Manitou, Sherritt Gordon and Steep Rock were active and higher.

A few senior golds heightened and juniors were mixed. Western oils backed down slightly from yesterday's strong advances. Federated Petroleum continued brisk but moved in a narrow range.

Grains Show Steady Trend

WINNIPEG, Dec. 23—(CP)—Trading generally had a holiday appearance on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, and little activity of note was in evidence in coarse grains.

Oats and barley prices moved narrowly but showed a steady undertone on domestic shipper demand in connection with eastern feed requirements. Also, some export business to Belgium was indicated in these grains, giving prices a firmer trend.

Rye firmed-up after early hesitation, as offerings decreased. Early offerings were fairly well taken by United States houses, and slight gains resulted.

No export business was reported, although there were indications of recent shipments of Canadian feed grains to Belgium. Prices of class two wheat came down three cents, to $2.15.

Corridor Now Has 13 Wells

By Don Flach

Total of 13 wells will have been completed on the Leduc-Woodbend corridor by the team of Home-Anglo-Calgary and Edmonton Corporation by the end of the year. First well was completed in the area last March establishing a link between the Woodbend and Leduc fields in both D2 and D3 formations.

Present wells in process of completion are No. 14 which is standing cemented and will be put on production within a day or two, and No. 15, which is drilling at [illegible] feet several hundred feet above the oil zone.

BOTH D3 AND D2

Twelve of the wells are bottomed in the D3 and one in the D2 and most of the sites in the three and one-half quarter section spread are capable of production from both zones.

Gulf Ellis 13, near Stettler, is preparing to core at 5,150 feet after drilling into the right top of the D2. This well is located in the subdivision immediately to the south of the discovery. Gulf Kerridge five miles south and east of the discovery is drilling at 400 feet this morning and Gulf Lakusta No. 11 in the Redwater field is rigging. No. 14 adjacent to No. 11 is moving in equipment.

Ross Petroleums have started their third well on the west flank of the Leduc field. Spudded at 11 o'clock last night the well was drilling at 134 feet at 8 a.m. this morning. Continental 18, swabbed Wednesday was opened for production testing today, after being shut in for a day. It started flowing after valve was opened ten minutes, according to the report this morning.

General Pete No. 2, at the south end of the field, is drilling at 5,050 feet this morning. Cardiff Giant No. 1 northeast of Edmonton is drilling at 3,793 feet.

Trade Light At Calgary

CALGARY, Dec. 23—Trend was mixed in light, pre-holiday trade today on the Calgary Exchange.

Most issues moved in narrow range while volume totalled only 66,[illegible] shares.

Leduc Calmar, Hargal and Superior were [illegible]. United [illegible] were [illegible].

Federated gained three points to close at $2.01.

The Holiday Season will soon be over. Dominion statisticians predict no falling off in business for 1950. Farm marketing boards are confident of satisfactory negotiations with the United Kingdom. Replacement values govern and control present prices.

Our offerings are far below replacement values. We are the oldest firm of Business Locators operating in Western Canada. When you purchase through our office, you get value and protection. We are members of the Calgary, Alberta, and Dominion Realtors Association.

You owe it to yourselves to consult us before buying or selling property, businesses, your city home or farms. Our departments are all qualified.

We welcome this opportunity to express our appreciation of your valued goodwill. A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU AND YOURS AND EVERY GOOD WISH FOR THE NEW YEAR!
